

December 2005

Author Index	Page 1
Subject Index	Page 6
Title Index	Page 16

Author Index

- Ahlers, J., & Leiter, J. Ten years of technology. April 1994. 3-5.
- Alant, E. AAC in developing countries: The center for AAC at the university of Pretoria, South Africa. August 2003. 6-8.
- Anctil, T. M. Understanding social security disability and work incentives. February 1998. 5-7.
- Angelo, D. Family issues in AAC. November 1998. 4-6.
- Armstrong, J. S. Forming parent and professional partnerships. November 1998. 7-9.
- Arvidson, H. Test accommodations: What do we know? August 1998. 16-17.
- Beck, A. R. Children's attitudes toward peers who use AAC. June 2005. 20-23.
- Baker, B. Finding the hidden metaphor. September 1996. 5-7.
- Ball, L. J., Beukelman, E. R., Pattee, G. L. AAC clinical decision making for persons with ALS. April 2002. 7-12.
- Bardach, L., & Newman, D. Augmentative and alternative communication in ALS. December 2003. 14-21.
- Beck, A., & Thompson, J. R. Special educators and SLPs working together to provide AAC services. December 2000. 13-14.
- Becker, L. B. The value of the interdisciplinary team evaluation in the assessment of individuals with AAC needs. September 1999. 5-6.
- Bersani, H. A., & Fried-Oken, M. Transition planning: Not just a good IDEA, it's the law! February 1998. 4-5.
- Beukelman, D. R. Unusual research partners. August 2002. 24.
- Beukelman, D. R., & Light, J. Organizational strategies. August 2002. 14-17.
- Beukelman, D. R., & Light, J. System appeal/attitudes. August 2002. 21-23.
- Blackstone, S. W. Virtually speaking. November 2002. 2-3.
- Blischak, D. From the guest editor. December 2000. 2.
- Blockberger, S. Helping the AAC user acquire grammatical morphology. November 1997. 5-7.
- Brady, N., Sevcik, R. A., Caves, K., Mclean, L., Mollica, B. M., Ronski, M., Snell, M., & Paul-Brown, D. There are no prerequisites for communication. August 2003. 27-29.
- Brady, N. C. "Repair work ahead": The importance of assessing communication breakdown and repair in AAC. December 1999. 10-11.
- Brady, N. C. Comprehension and production in AAC. June 2001. 17-19.
- Bridges, S. Delivery of AAC services to a rural American Indian community. May 2000. 6-9.
- Broehl, M. Spot the funding: A hypothetical case study illustrating funding dilemmas of older age persons with communication disabilities. March 1995. 11-12.
- Brothers, S., Sewell, R., Smith, S., Anderson, K., & Dublin, C. A theater script. November 1995. 8-10.
- Browning, J., Lococo, V., Forrest, S., & Fox, A. Graduate assistantship experience promotes research foundation for clinical practice. February 1999. 13-14.
- Bruno, J. Assessing the school-aged child for AAC. April 2005. 3-7.
- Bruno, J. A report of the division survey on direct versus indirect services. August 1994. 9-10.
- Bruno, J. Direct vs indirect time: What are the needs in AAC? November 1992. 2-3.
- Bruno, J. Mom went to speech instead of the beach: Camp Chatterbox—Children's specialized hospital. May 1997. 11-13.
- Bryen, D. N., & Slesaransky-Poe, G. ACES: Augmentative communication and empowerment supports. May 1997. 15-17.
- Buzolich, M. J. Acts. April 1994. 3.
- Calculator, S. N. AAC curriculum, or placing the cart before the horse. November 1996. 4-5.
- Calculator, S. N. AAC knowledge and skills. November 2002. 17-18.
- Casey, K. Play-based assessment for AAC. November 1995. 10-13.

- Caves, K., DeRuyter, R., & Beukelman, D. R. Interface design. August 2002. 8-11.
- Cheslock, M. Issues of language input and output in AAC with young children. September 2004. 11-14.
- Cheslock, M., Ronski, M. A., Sevcik, R. A., & Adamson, L. B. Augmented language intervention project: From school-aged youth to toddlers. June 2001. 15-17.
- Chung, P., & Tull, R. G. Technology use among teens and young adults with autism and related disorders. August 2000. 16-18.
- Clark, E. A., & Clark, E. G. Using evidence-based practice to guide decision making in AAC. November 2002. 6-9.
- Corwin, M., & Koul, R. Augmentative and alternative communication intervention for individuals with chronic severe aphasia: An evidence-based practice process illustration. September 2003. 11-15.
- Cottier, C., & Fishman, I. Financial aspects of specialty recognition. June 1996. 9-10.
- Cress, C. Will my child talk? December 2003. 10-11.
- Cress, C. Questions and answers about Resna's quality assurance activities. November 1995. 13-15.
- Cress, C. J. Transitions from spontaneous to intentional behaviors. May 1999. 4-7.
- Cress, C. J. A communication "tools" model for AAC intervention with early communicators. June 2001. 20-22.
- Cress, C. J., & Wood, L. A. Language and AAC intervention in young children: Never too early or too late to start. June 2001. 2-3.
- Culp, D. AAC in the public schools—helpful Web sites. June 2005. 27-28.
- Culp, D. If mama ain't happy, ain't nobody happy. December 2003. 3-9.
- Culp, D. In search of AAC access for all individuals with complex communication needs. April 2004. 4-5.
- Cumley, G. D., & Robinson, N. B. Perspectives on teaching AAC. June 2004. 2-3.
- Cumley, G. D., & Stuart, S. The aging process and the affect on successful AAC use. September 2005. 22-25.
- Damico, S. AAC and literacy summer program: Facilitating transfer of content and methods to the regular academic classroom. May 1997. 6-7.
- DePaepe, P., Feeley, K., & Wood, L. A. Augmentative and alternative communication considerations for adults with significant cognitive disabilities. April 2002. 20-25.
- Deputy, P. N. Running the maze. August 1993. 4-5.
- Division 12 Professional Preparation Committee. Augmentative and alternative communication (AAC) resources for professional preparation. December 2001. (Supplement) 1-13.
- Dowden, P. Using internet sources within and beyond the classroom. June 2004. 17-20.
- Doyle, M., & Burton, W. Update on Medicare and speech generating devices. April 2005. 13-18.
- Dropik, P., & Reichle, J. Developing an intervention strategy to replace challenging behavior used to escape undesired activities: A case example. March 2001. 8-10.
- d'Oliveira de Paula Nunes, L. R. AAC intervention research with children and youth with moderate and severe disabilities in Brazil. August 2003. 2-6.
- Eberle, C. M. Breaking down barriers in geriatrics. September 2005. 7-9.
- Effinger, J. Comments on ethical dilemmas. November 1996. 16-17.
- Erickson, K. Reading Development in AAC. February 2003. 8-10.
- Erickson, K., & Clendon, S. A. Responding to individual needs: Promoting the literacy development of students who use AAC. June 2005. 11-16.
- Erickson, K. A., & Koppenhaver, D. A. Should AAC be taught as a separate curriculum? November 1996. 5-7.
- Evans, L. M. Pennsylvania's solution to funding school-based assistive technology. June 2001. 22-24.
- Fagan, E. Credentialing considerations. November 1996. 20-22.
- Fager, S., Beukelman, D., Ball, L., & Jakobs, T. New access options for head pointing. April 2004. 16-20.
- Fager, S., Beukelman, D., & Jakobs, T. AAC intervention for locked-in syndrome using the safe-laser access system. April 2002. 4-6.
- Finch, A., & Meier, S. Clinician's education associated with AAC. September 1999. 2-4.
- Foley, B. Language, literacy, and AAC: Translating theory into practice. February 2003. 5-8.
- Fried-Oken, M. Story telling as an augmentative communication approach for a man with severe apraxia of speech and expressive aphasia. March 1995. 3-4.
- Fried-Oken, M., & Bersani, H. Framing the transition issues: "Take one giant step." "Mother may I?" February 1998. 3.
- Fried-Oken, M., & Bardach, L. End-of-life issues for people who use AAC. September 2005. 15-19.
- Frost, L. The picture exchange communication system. April 2003. 8-10.
- Gangkofer, M. H. Is it easy or hard to "read" a picture? September 1996. 4-5.
- Garrett, K. Expanding expressive communication options for a person with severe aphasia. March 1995. 5-7.
- Geluso, B. Supplementing residual speech with high-tech AAC. December 2005. 5-6.
- Gillette, Y. Teaching resources in AAC and distance learning. February 1999. 16-18.
- Gillette, Y. A Web site worth checking out: aac.unl.edu. August 2000. 15-16.
- Glennen, S. AAC at ASHA news. September 2003. 19.

- Goldsmith, S. Educating, credentialing and employing health care providers: A view of our profession as seen by the PEW health professions commission. August 1994. 7-9.
- Golinker, L. Insurance funding for AAC devices: Update. February 2003. 12.
- Golinker, L. Medicaid AAC device funding for nursing facility residents. August 2003. 29-33.
- Golinker, L. Medicare coverage of voice amplifiers. December 2004, 20.
- Golinker, L. Medicare funding for AAC devices. May 1998. 11-12.
- Golinker, L. Medicare now covers AAC devices. March 2001. 12-14.
- Golinker, L. Medicare eliminates computer-based device exclusion: A new class of AAC device emerges. June 2001. 29-32.
- Golinker, L. Responding to threats to Medicaid SGD coverage & funding. December 2005. 11-13.
- Golinker, L. Tricare expands SGD coverage. September 2005. 25-26.
- Gradel, K. AAC over the long haul. November 1998. 9-10.
- Harlan, N., & Kravitz, E. Assessing expertise in AAC. June 1996. 7-9.
- Harris, O. AAC training practices in speech-language pathology and special education programs at historically Black colleges and universities. February 1999. 11-12.
- Harris, O. An AAC training program at an historically Black university. May 2000. 2-13.
- Hemphill, J. Instructional programs teach literacy to AAC users. December 2005. 6-7.
- Hetzroni, O. E. Identifying intentional communication in children with severe disabilities. June 2001. 7-10.
- Hidecker, M. J. C. Transitions in early intervention and AAC. September 2004. 15-19.
- Higdon, C. W. ASHA 2002 AAC program. November 2002. 14-16.
- Higginbotham, D. J. Introduction: Research on utterance-based communication. December 2001. 2-5.
- Higginbotham, D. J., & Leshner, G. W. The ambiguous keyboard. April 2004. 12-16.
- Higginbotham, J., & McNaughton, D. Kovack, T. Performance and usability. August 2002. 17-19.
- Higgins, J. M., & Carney, R. The play's the thing. August 1994. 2-4.
- Huer, M. B. Our journey. November 1994. 9-10.
- Huer, M. B. International activities in AAC. August 2003. 17-19.
- Huer, M. B. Reflections from a project director (1994-2000). May 2000. 14-16.
- Hunt-Berg, M. Gestures in development: Implications for early intervention in AAC. June 2001. 4-7.
- Hunt-Berg, M. The Bridge School: A community of practice in AAC. June 2005. 6-10.
- Kaiser, A. P., & Hancock, T. B. Teaching parents to support their children's communication: Adaptations for AAC. September 2004. 4-6.
- Kangas, K. Ethical dilemmas: Defending principles in the "real world." September 1996. 14-16.
- Kangas, K. Ethical dilemmas: Defending principles in the "real world," Part II. November 1996. 11-14.
- Kaye & Phillip (in collaboration with G. Van Tatenhove). A student guide for successful inclusion. September 1995. 12-14.
- Kempka, D. Hurry, hurry, find the fire! November 1995. 7-8.
- Kennedy, M., & Shiller, B. A. Collaborative preservice program in AT and AAC. June 2004. 3-7.
- King-DeBaun, P. Making dramatic centers print rich. November 1995. 3-4.
- Korsten, J. E. Meaningful data—Making sense of "+" and "-". November 2002. 10-13.
- Kortz, D. The importance of home and school connections. November 1998. 6-7.
- Koul, R., & Schlosser, R. Clinician and researcher database in augmentative and alternative communication. September 2001. 22-24.
- Kovach, T. Context is the key. November 1996. 7-10.
- Kovach, T. The United States society for augmentative and alternative communication. August 2003. 19-20.
- Kraat, A. Specialty recognition in ACC. August 1994. 5-7.
- Kravitz, E., Bruno, J., Tullman, J., Wilkinson, K., Wiseman, V. A., & Zangari, C. Specialty Recognition Committee final report—May 23, 2001. September 2001. 20-22.
- Kwasniewski, J. Word prediction: A time saver? August 1994. 4-5.
- Lasker, J. P. Categorical AAC assessment of persons with aphasia (PWA). April 2002. 14-19.
- Lasker, J. P. Development of a model AAC syllabus: Exploring new competencies. June 2004. 25-28.
- Lasker, J. P. Language and organization for adults with acquired disorders: Clinical framework for aphasia assessment. September 2005. 10-14.
- Leseth, L., & Meader, L. Utilizing an AAC system to maximize receptive and expressive communication skills of a person with Alzheimer's Disease. March 1995. 7-9.
- Light, J., & Beukelman, D. R. Representational strategies. August 2002. 20-21.
- Light, J., & Drager, K. Re-thinking access to AAC technologies for young children: Simplifying the learning demands. April 2004. 5-12.
- Light, J., McNaughton, D., Drager, K., Roberts, B., & Wilson, K. The Penn State partnerships in AAC project: A multidisciplinary preservice program for speech-language pathologists and special education teachers. June 2004. 8-12.
- Lindsay, S. D. Family participation in AAC. February 1999. 19.
- Lloyd, L. L. ISAAC panel on Resna's assistive technology credentialing program. November 1996. 20.
- Lloyd, L. L. Resna's AAC credentialing activities. June 1996. 12-14.

- Lloyd, L. L. Will ASHA's new structure meet your needs? August 1997. 17-19.
- Lloyd, L. L., & Pufpaff, L. They said it couldn't be done, but we did it anyway. February 1999. 8-11.
- Lowe, M. A. Selecting reading and writing vocabulary for the AAC user. April 2003. 3-7.
- Lytton, R. Augmentative communication as a medical necessity. April 1994. 6-8.
- Lytton, R. Early intervention: Assessment issues. September 2004. 22-24.
- MacFarland, S. Z. Beyond calendar boxes: The importance of systematic instruction of the van Dijk approach for learners who are deaf-blind. December 2000. 4-7.
- Mahendra, N., Ribera, J., Sevcik, R., Adler, R., Cheng, L., Davis-McFarland, E., Deal-Williams, V., Garrett, D., Riquelme, L., Salisbury, T., Schneider, W., & Villanueva, A. Why is yogurt good for you? Because it has live cultures. December 2004. 17-19.
- Mathy, P. Augmentative and alternative communication intervention in neurogenic disorders with acquired dysarthria. April 2003. 11-17.
- McCloskey, S. R. Assistive technology: School-related issues. November 2002. 2-3.
- McCloskey, S. R. Inclusion: Communication technology and the classroom. September 1995. 4-6.
- McCloskey, S. R., & Zabala, J. S. Using quality indicators to improve service delivery for assistive technology services in educational settings. November 2002. 3-6.
- McComas, J. Considering the efficiency of communicative options available to a beginning communicator. March 2001. 11-12.
- McCord, S., & Soto, G. Working with low-income Latino families: Issues and strategies. May 2000. 10-12.
- McCoy, K. F., Bedrosian, J. L., & Hoag, L. A. Pragmatic trade-offs in utterance-based systems: Uncovering technological implications. December 2001. 12-16.
- McKamy, V., & Moore, J. R. A consultative model for AAC/AT support: A team approach. June 2005. 16-20.
- McEvoy, M. A., & Neilsen, S. L. Using functional behavioral assessment and functional communication training to assess and prevent challenging behavior. March 2001. 6-8.
- McLean, L. K., Molica, B. M., Mirenda, P., Paul-Brown, D., Ronski, M. A., Sevcik, R. A., & Snell, M. E. Update from the National Joint Committee for the Communication Needs of Persons with Severe Disabilities. June 2001. 24-27.
- McNairn, P. Facilitating literacy development in AAC users. April 1994. 8-9.
- McNaughton, S., & Bryen, D. Employment issues. August 2002. 5-8.
- Merrie, M., Holloway, K., Frana, N., & Gibbroek, J. Engineering the classroom for ACC. November 1993. 6-8.
- Mollica, B. M. AT access and individuals with mental retardation: Documentation of the need and the barriers. December 1999. 4-5.
- Mollica, B. M. Representing the way to language learning and expression. November 1997. 3-4.
- Moon, J. The ASHA specialty recognition program is here! June 1996. 3-4.
- Moore, S. M., Kovach, T. M., & Donaldson, C. A. What an experience—A preservice training opportunity! Talking with technology camp. May 1997. 9-11.
- Morris, R. D., & Sevcik, R. A. Reading development: Models and processes. February 2003. 3-5.
- Murphy, J. W. The reality of managed health care: Implications for AAC service delivery. May 1998. 4-5.
- Namy, L. Contemporary research in symbolic development: factors influencing acquisition in typically developing children. September 2004. 7-10.
- Nelson, B., Howell, M., & Ross, J. A tale of two transitions. February 1998. 9-10.
- Nyberg, E. The role of linguistic theory in AAC. September 1996. 7-9.
- Olsson, C. The EBP experiences of an AAC service provider: diving in deep. September 2003. 15-19.
- Osborn, S. R. Remembering key points for inclusion. September 1995. 9-12.
- Palenzuela, M. Interview with a master storyteller. December 2000. 9-10.
- Parette, H. P. Culture, families, and augmentative and alternative communication impact. May 2000. 3-6.
- Patel, R. Rethinking sentence formulation in AAC. December 2001. 5-7.
- Paul, R. Developing preliteracy skills in children with severe speech and physical impairments: Fostering phonological awareness. November 1997. 10-11.
- Paul-Brown, D. What is NJC doing for children and adults with severe disabilities? December 1999. 8-10.
- Pecunas, P. Living with a communication device. April 2002. 27-30.
- Rakhman, S. V. Two realities: How the social conditions of society affect the quality of life of people with disabilities (personal and economic points of view). August 2003. 20-27.
- Rackensperger, T. The road to full-time employment. December 2005. 8-9.
- Ratcliff, A. ASHA's new standards for pre-professional training in SLP and what they may mean for ACC. December 2003. 22-24.
- Ratcliff, A. Augmentative and alternative communication: Challenges at the preservice level. February 1999. 2.
- Ratcliff, A. Rationale for preservice training in AAC. February 1999. 3-6.
- Reed, P. R. Inclusion: Team decision making and augmentative and alternative communication services. September 1995. 8-9.

- Reichle, J. The importance of addressing problem behavior among beginning communicators. March 2001. 1-2.
- Rodgers, N. M., & Brown, L. K. AAC: If you're not into it yet, you should be! June 2005. 2-5.
- Roth, K. D. Addressing challenges to success with students who use augmentative and alternative communication in the school setting. June 2005. 24-26.
- Rowland, C. But what can they do? Assessment of communication skills in children with severe and multiple disabilities. April 2005. 7-12.
- Rowland, C., & Schweigert, P. Tangible solutions for individuals with dual sensory impairments. December 2000. 3-4.
- Romski, M. A. Back to the future: Don't forget the knowledge we have as we move into the next century. December 1999. 2-3.
- Romski, M. A., & Sevcik, R. A. Speech comprehension and early augmented language intervention: Concepts, measurement, and clinical considerations. May 1999. 7-10.
- Saenz, T. I., & Huer, M. B. Considerations in the assessment and treatment of bilingual individuals. November 1994. 8-9.
- Sall, N. Friendship: A social, educational, and communication concern for children who are deaf-blind. December 2000. 7-9.
- Sargent, J. E. Nonverbal immediacy: Communicative salience during interpersonal interactions. September 2005. 4-7.
- Scally, C. Visual design: Implications for developing dynamic display systems. December 2001. 16-19.
- Scherz, J. Communication and active participation (caregiver) issues. September 2005. 20-21.
- Schlosser, R., Calculator, S., Finch, A., Kovach, T., & Sevcik, R. A. Augmentative and alternative communication: A bibliography. June 2001. 32-33.
- Schlosser, R. W. Evidence-based practice: Frequently asked questions, myths, and resources. September 2003. 4-7.
- Schlosser, R. W. Evidence-based practice: Meeting the challenge. September 2003. 3-4.
- Schwartz, J. AAC-RERC writers brigade: Purpose, function, and outcome. December 2005. 3-4.
- Seaver, R. I. Psychological perspectives of AAC use. September 1996. 9-13.
- Sementelli, C. "I brought my talker, my sleeping bag, and my little brother!" May 1997. 8.
- Sevcik, R. A. Introduction. February 2003. 2.
- Sevcik, R. A. Research with young children at risk for speech/language development disorders. May 1999. 1-4.
- Sevcik, R. A., & Romski, M. Expanding our understanding of AAC in Hong Kong. August 2003. 14-16.
- Sigafoos, J., & Drasgow, E. Empirically validated strategies, evidence-based practice, and basic principles in communication intervention for learners with developmental disabilities. September 2003. 7-10.
- Smyzek, A. AAC: Growing in Poland. August 2003. 8-11.
- Soto, G. A cultural perspective on augmentative and alternative communication. November 1994. 6-7.
- Soto, G. An AAC training program with emphasis on collaboration and inclusion. June 2004. 13-16.
- Soto, G. "We have come a long way..." AAC and multiculturalism: From cultural awareness to cultural responsibility. May, 2000. 1-3.
- Spitler, C. K. Music, play, and AAC. November 1995. 4-6.
- Staehele, J., Murphy, J., & Myers, C. Sharing a dream: A summer institute for language and literacy. May 1997. 13-14.
- Starr, J. The Oregon health plan: Understanding implications for people with disabilities. May 1998. 7-8.
- Staugler, K. Response to "Ethical dilemmas." November 1996. 14-16.
- Steele, R. Benefits of advanced AAC technology uses to adults with acquired aphasia. December 2004. 3-7.
- Stuart, S. AAC and pediatric palliative care. December 2004. 12-16.
- Stuart, S. Expanding communicative participation using augmentative and alternative communication within a game playing activity for a man with severe aphasia. March 1995. 9-11.
- Stuart, S. Service learning model for preprofessional preparation in AAC at New Mexico State University. February 1999. 7.
- Sturm, J. Improving technologies for school-age children with severe physical handicaps. August 2002. 12-13.
- Sundberg, R. Oregon's Medicaid program and managed care: A case study of legal issues. May 1998. 6.
- Sutton, A. Grammatical development and AAC. November 1997. 7-9.
- Sweeney, L. A. Toward autonomy in AAC practice. August 1993. 2-4.
- Swengel, K. AAC and our family! Interview with Carol Sneath, mother of Melissa. November 1998. 10-12.
- Swengel, K., & Armstrong, J. S. Translating theory into practice: A baker's dozen. November 1998. 3-4.
- Symons, F. J. Self injury as alternative communication: Bridging behavior and biology. March 2001. 3-5.
- Todman, J. Availability and accessibility in whole utterance-based devices. December 2001. 8-11.
- Valot, L. S. Pick a curriculum, any curriculum: What to use with people who use AAC. November 1996. 10-11.
- Van Tatenhove, G. M. Field of dreams. November 1993. 8-11.
- Van Tatenhove, G. M. Language production with cognitively challenged adults: A case study. November 1997. 12-16.

- Van Tatenhove, G. M. Supporting AAC device users living in residential care settings. December 2004. 8-11.
- Van Tatenhove, G. M. Using competent AAC users as peer trainers. August 1993. 5-7.
- Ward, M. J. Personal perspectives on transition and assistive technology. February 1998. 7-8.
- Wasson, C. A. Multicultural demographics in AAC. November 1994. 7.
- Watkins, C. W. Resna credentialing program. June 1996. 11-12.
- Wilder, K. (for T. Ayers). My story of managed care. May 1998. 8-10.
- Wilkinson, K. Gender differences in the communication of individuals with developmental disabilities. December 1999. 6-8.
- Wilkinson, K. M. Specialty recognition. May 1999. 13.
- Williams, B. The Edwin and Esther Prentke AAC distinguished lecture. March 2001. 15-16.
- Williams, M. What is an RERC? August 2002. 4-5.
- Wood, L. Early intervention and ACC assessment resources. December 2003. 12-13.
- Wood, L. A. Early literacy activities and language learning opportunities for children who use AAC. June 2001. 10-11.
- Yoder, P., & Warren, S. F. Prelinguistic communication intervention may be one way to help children with developmental delays learn to talk. May 1999. 11-12.
- Yong, S. AAC in Singapore: Blending culture, language, and technology to serve our island's people. August 2003. 11-14.
- Younkerman, T. WebCrawlers – Taking AAC devices to a new level. December 2005. 9-10.
- Zabala, J. The SETT framework: Choosing and using tools that promote inclusion through communication participation, and productivity. September 1995. 6-8.
- Zangari, C. Online instruction in AAC: Engaging the learner. June 2004. 20-24.
- Zangari, C. Symbolization and the young child with significant communication challenges. September 2004. 19-21.
- Zangari, C. Specialty recognition. November 1998. 12.
- Zangari, C. Using natural context AAC assessments to plan meaningful intervention. April 1994. 5-6.
- Zangari, C. Where are we with specialty recognition? June 1996. 4-6.
- Zangari, C. Helping families gain acceptance of AAC strategies. June 2001. 12-15.

Subject Index

Language Assessment and Intervention

Assessment

- AAC in the public schools-helpful Web sites. Culp, D. June 2005. 27-28.
- Assessing the school-aged child for AAC. Bruno, J. April 2005. 3-7.
- Augmentative and alternative communication considerations for adults with significant cognitive disabilities. DePaepe, P., Feeley, K., & Wood, L. A. April 2002. 20-25.
- But what can they do? Assessment of communication skills in children with severe and multiple disabilities. Rowland, C. April 2005. 7-12.
- Categorical AAC assessment of persons with aphasia (PWA). Lasker, J. P. April 2002. 14-19.
- Considerations in the assessment and treatment of bilingual individuals. Saenz, T. I., & Huer, M. B. November 1994. 8-9.
- Early intervention and ACC assessment resources. Wood, L. December 2003. 12-13.
- Improving technologies for school-age children with severe physical handicaps. Sturm, J. August 2002. 12-13.
- Language, literacy, and AAC: Translating theory into practice. Foley, B. February 2003. 5-8.
- Language and organization for adults with acquired disorders: Clinical framework for aphasia assessment. Lasker, J. P. September 2005. 10-14.
- Play-based assessment for AAC. Casey, K. November 1995. 10-13.
- “Repair work ahead”: The importance of assessing communication breakdown and repair in AAC. Brady, N. C. December 1999. 10-11.
- Responding to individual needs: Promoting the literacy development of students who use AAC. Erickson, K. M., & Clendon, S. A. June 2005. 11-16.

- Selecting reading and writing vocabulary for the AAC user. Lowe, M. A. April 2003. 3-7.
- Test accommodations: What do we know? Arvidson, H. August 1998. 16-17.
- There are no prerequisites for communication. Brady, N., Sevcik, R. A., Caves, K., Mclean, L., Mollica, B. M., Rowski, M., Snell, M., & Paul-Brown, D. August 2003. 27-29.
- Using functional behavioral assessment and functional communication training to assess and prevent challenging behavior. McEvoy, M. A., & Neilsen, S. L. March 2001. 6-8.
- Using natural context AAC assessments to plan meaningful intervention. Zangari, C. April 1994. 5-6.
- Using quality indicators to improve service delivery for assistive technology services in educational settings. McCloskey, S. R., & Zabala, J. S. November 2002. 3-6.
- The value of the interdisciplinary team evaluation in the assessment of individuals with AAC needs. Becker, L. B. September 1999. 5-6.
- Intervention
- AAC and pediatric palliative care. Stuart, S. December 2004. 12-16.
- AAC and literacy summer program: Facilitating transfer of content and methods to the regular academic classroom. Damico, S. May 1997. 6-7.
- AAC and our family! Interview with Carol Sneath, mother of Melissa. Swengel, K. November 1998. 10-12.
- AAC: If you're not into it yet, you should be! Rodgers, N. M., & Brown, L. K. June 2005. 2-5
- AAC in the public schools—Helpful Web sites. Culp, D. June 2005. 27-28.
- ACES: Augmentative communication and empowerment supports. Bryen, D. N., & Slesarsky-Poe, G. May 1997. 15-17.
- Assessing the school-aged child for AAC. Bruno, J. April 2005. 3-7.
- Augmentative and alternative communication considerations for adults with significant cognitive disabilities. DePaepe, P., Feeley, K., & Wood, L. A. April 2002. 20-25.
- Augmentative communication as a medical necessity. Lytton, R. April 1994. 6-8.
- Augmented language intervention project: From school-aged youth to toddlers. Cheslock, M., Rowski, M. A., Sevcik, R. A., & Adamson, L. B. June 2001. 15-17.
- Back to the future: Don't forget the knowledge we have as we move into the next century. Rowski, M. A. December 1999. 2-3.
- Beyond calendar boxes: The importance of systematic instruction of the van Dijk approach for learners who are deaf-blind. MacFarland, S. Z. December 2000. 4-7.
- But what can they do? Assessment of communication skills in children with severe and multiple disabilities. Rowland, C. April 2005. 7-12.
- Categorical AAC assessment of persons with aphasia (PWA). Lasker, J. P. April 2002. 14-19.
- A communication "tools" model for AAC intervention with early communicators. Cress, C. J. June 2001. 20-22.
- Comprehension and production in AAC. Brady, N. C. June 2001. 17-19.
- Considerations in the assessment and treatment of bilingual individuals. Saenz, T. I., & Huer, M. B. November 1994. 8-9.
- A consultative model for AAC/AT support: A team approach. McKamy, V., & Moore, J. R. June 2005. 16-20.
- Context is the key. Kovach, T. November 1996. 7-10.
- Developing an intervention strategy to replace challenging behavior used to escape undesired activities: A case example. Dropik, P., & Reichle, J. March 2001. 8-10.
- Developing preliteracy skills in children with severe speech and physical impairments: Fostering phonological awareness. Paul, R. November 1997. 10-11.
- Friendship: A social, educational, and communication concern for children who are deaf-blind. Sall, N. December 2000. 7-9.
- Early literacy activities and language learning opportunities for children who use AAC. Wood, L. A. June 2001. 10-11.
- Engineering the classroom for ACC. Merrie, M., Holloway, K., Frana, N., & Gibbroek, J. November 1993. 6-8.
- Expanding communicative participation using augmentative and alternative communication within a game playing activity for a man with severe aphasia. Stuart, S. March 1995. 9-11.
- Expanding expressive communication options for a person with severe aphasia. Garrett, K. March 1995. 5-7.
- Facilitating literacy development in AAC users. McNairn, P. April 1994. 8-9.
- Field of dreams. Van Tatenhove, G. M. November 1993. 8-11.
- Forming parent and professional partnerships. Armstrong, J. S. November 1998. 7-9.
- From the guest editor. Blischak, D. December 2000. 2.
- Gestures in development: Implications for early intervention in AAC. Hunt-Berg, M. June 2001. 4-7.
- Grammatical development and AAC. Sutton, A. November 1997. 7-9.
- Helping families gain acceptance of AAC strategies. Zangari, C. June 2001. 12-15.
- Helping the AAC user acquire grammatical morphology. Blockberger, S. November 1997. 5-7.
- "I brought my talker, my sleeping bag, and my little brother!" Sementelli, C. May 1997. 8.
- Identifying intentional communication in children with severe disabilities. Hetzroni, O. E. June 2001. 7-10.
- Instructional programs teach literacy to AAC users. Hemphill, J. December 2005. 6-7.
- Interview with a master storyteller. Palenzuela, M. December 2000. 9-10.

- Introduction. Sevcik, R. A. February 2003. 2.
- Language and AAC intervention in young children: Never too early or too late to start. Cress, C. J., & Wood, L. A. June 2001. 2-3.
- Language, literacy, and AAC: Translating theory into practice. Foley, B. February 2003. 5-8.
- Language production with cognitively challenged adults: A case study. Van Tatenhove, G. M. November 1997. 12-16.
- Making dramatic centers print rich. King-DeBaun, P. November 1995. 3-4.
- Meaningful data—Making sense of “+” and “-”. Korsten, J. E. November 2002. 10-13.
- Mom went to speech instead of the beach: Camp Chatterbox—Children’s specialized hospital. Bruno, J. May 1997. 11-13.
- Music, play, and AAC. Spitler, C. K. November 1995. 4-6.
- Pick a curriculum, any curriculum: What to use with people who use AAC. Valot, L. S. November 1996. 10-11.
- The Picture Exchange Communication System. Frost, L. April 2003. 8-10.
- The play’s the thing. Higgins, J. M., & Carney, R. August 1994. 2-4.
- Prelinguistic communication intervention may be one way to help children with developmental delays learn to talk. Yoder, P., & Warren, S. F. May 1999. 11-12.
- Reading development: Models and processes. Morris, R. D., & Sevcik, R. A. February 2003. 3-5.
- Representing the way to language learning and expression. Mollica, B. M. November 1997. 3-4.
- Responding to individual needs: Promoting the literacy development of students who use AAC. Erickson, K., & Clendon, S. A. June 2005. 11-16.
- Re-thinking access to AAC technologies for young children: Simplifying the learning demands. Light, J., & Drager, K. April 2004. 5-12.
- Sharing a dream: A summer institute for language and literacy. Staehely, J., Murphy, J., & Myers, C. May 1997. 13-14.
- Speech comprehension and early augmented language intervention: Concepts, measurement, and clinical considerations. Romski, M. A., & Sevcik, R. A. May 1999. 7-10.
- Supporting AAC device users living in residential care settings. VanTatenhove, G. December 2004. 8-11.
- Tangible solutions for individuals with dual sensory impairments. Rowland, C., & Schweigert, P. December 2000. 3-4.
- A theater script. Brothers, S., Sewell, R., Smith, S., Anderson, K., & Dublin, C. November 1995. 8-10.
- Transitions from spontaneous to intentional behaviors. Cress, C. J. May 1999. 4-7.
- Using competent AAC users as peer trainers. Van Tatenhove, G. M. August 1993. 5-7.
- Using functional behavioral assessment and functional communication training to assess and prevent challenging behavior. McEvoy, M. A., & Neilsen, S. L. March 2001. 6-8.
- Utilizing an AAC system to maximize receptive and expressive communication skills of a person with Alzheimer’s disease. Leseth, L., & Meader, L. March 1995. 7-9.
- Why is yogurt good for you? Because it has live cultures. Mahendra, N., Ribera, J., Sevcik, R., Adler, R., Cheng, L., Davis-McFarland, E., Deal-Williams, V., Garrett, D., Riquelme, L., Salisbury, T., Schneider, W., & Villanueva, A. December 2004. 17-19.
- Nonspeech Communication Systems
- AAC in the public schools—helpful Web sites. Culp, D. June 2005. 27-28.
- The ambiguous keyboard. Higginbotham, D. J., & Leshner, G. W. April 2004. 12-16.
- Assessing the school-aged child for AAC. Bruno, J. April 2005. 3-7.
- Augmentative and alternative communication intervention for individuals with chronic severe aphasia: An evidence-based practice process illustration. Corwin, M., & Koul, R. September 2003. 11-14.
- But what can they do? Assessment of communication skills in children with severe and multiple disabilities. Rowland, C. April 2005. 7-12.
- Categorical AAC assessment of persons with aphasia (PWA). Lasker, J. P. April 2002. 14-19.
- A collaborative preservice program in AT and AAC. Kennedy, M., & Shiller, B. June 2004. 3-7.
- A consultative model for AAC/AT support: A team approach. McKamy, V., & Moore, J. R. June 2005. 16-20.
- Employment issues. McNaughton, S., & Bryen, D. August 2002. 5-8.
- Evidence-based practice: Meeting the challenge. Schlosser, R. W. September 2003. 3.
- Evidence-based practice: Frequently asked questions, myths, and resources. Schlosser, R. W. September 2003. 4-6.
- If mama ain’t happy, ain’t nobody happy. Culp, D. December 2003. 3-9.
- Improving technologies for school-age children with severe physical handicaps. Sturm, J. August 2002. 12-13.
- In search of AAC access for all individuals with complex communication needs. Culp, D. April 2004. 4-5.
- Instructional programs teach literacy to AAC users. Hemphill, J. December 2005. 6-7.
- Interface design. Caves, K., DeRuyter, R., & Beukelman, D. R. August 2002. 8-11.
- Language and organization for adults with acquired disorders: Clinical framework for aphasia assessment. Lasker, J. P. September 2005. 10-14.

- Meaningful data—Making sense of “+” and “-”. Korsten, J. E. November 2002. 10-13.
- New access options for head pointing. Fager, S., Beukelman, D., Ball, L., & Jakobs, T. April 2004. 16-20.
- Organizational strategies. Beukelman, D. R., & Light, J. August 2002. 14-17.
- Performance and usability. August 2002. Higginbotham, J., McNaughton, D., & Kovack, T. 17-19.
- The Picture Exchange Communication System. Frost, L. April 2003. 8-10.
- Representational strategies. Light, J., & Beukelman, D. R. August 2002. 20-21.
- Responding to individual needs: Promoting the literacy development of students who use AAC. Erickson, K., & Clendon, S. A. June 2005. 11-16.
- System appeal/attitudes. Beukelman, D. R., & Light, J. August 2002. 21-23.
- Unusual research partners. Beukelman, D. R. August 2002. 24.
- Using quality indicators to improve service delivery for assistive technology services in educational settings. McCloskey, S. R., & Zabala, J. S. November 2002. 3-6.
- What is an RERC? Williams, M. August 2002. 4-5.
- Assistive Technology
- AAC in the public schools—helpful Web sites. Culp, D. June 2005. 27-28.
- AAC intervention for locked-in syndrome using the safe-laser access system. Fager, S., Beukelman, D., & Jakobs, T. April 2002. 4-6.
- The ambiguous keyboard. Higginbotham, D. J., & Leshner, G. W. April 2004. 12-16.
- Assistive technology: School-related issues. McCloskey, S. R. November 2002. 2-3.
- AT access and individuals with mental retardation: Documentation of the need and the barriers. Mollica, B. M. December 1999. 4-5.
- Availability and accessibility in whole utterance-based devices. Todman, J. December 2001. 8-11.
- Benefits of advanced AAC technology uses to adults with acquired aphasia. Steele, R. December 2004. 3-7.
- But what can they do? Assessment of communication skills in children with severe and multiple disabilities. Rowland, C. April 2005. 7-12.
- Categorical AAC assessment of persons with aphasia (PWA). Lasker, J. P. April 2002. 14-19.
- Children’s attitudes toward peers who use AAC. Beck, A. R. June 2005. 20-23.
- A collaborative preservice program in AT and AAC. Kennedy, M., & Shiller, B. June 2004. 3-7.
- A consultative model for AAC/AT support: A team approach. McKamy, V., & Moore, J. R. June 2005. 16-20.
- Employment issues. McNaughton, S., & Bryen, D. August 2002. 5-8.
- If mama ain’t happy, ain’t nobody happy. Culp, D. December 2003. 3-9.
- Improving technologies for school-age children with severe physical handicaps. Sturm, J. August 2002. 12-13.
- Interface design. Caves, K., DeRuyter, R., & Beukelman, D. R. August 2002. 8-11.
- Introduction: Research on utterance-based communication. Higginbotham, D. J. December 2001. 2-5.
- ISAAC panel on Resna’s assistive technology credentialing program. Lloyd, L. L. November 1996. 20.
- Language and organization for adults with acquired disorders: Clinical framework for aphasia assessment. Lasker, J. P. September 2005. 10-14.
- Meaningful data—Making sense of “+” and “-”. Korsten, J. E. November 2002. 10-13.
- Medicare funding for AAC devices. Golinker, L. May 1998. 11-12.
- New access options for head pointing. Fager, S., Beukelman, D., Ball, L., & Jakobs, T. April 2004. 16-20.
- Organizational strategies. Beukelman, D. R., & Light, J. August 2002. 14-17.
- Pennsylvania’s solution to funding school-based assistive technology. Evans, L. M. June 2001. 22-24.
- Performance and usability. August 2002. Higginbotham, J., McNaughton, D., & Kovack, T. 17-19.
- Personal perspectives on transition and assistive technology. Ward, M. J. February 1998. 7-8.
- Pragmatic trade-offs in utterance-based systems: Uncovering technological implications. McCoy, K. F., Bedrosian, J. L., & Hoag, L. A. December 2001. 12-16.
- Representational strategies. Light, J., & Beukelman, D. R. August 2002. 20-21.
- Responding to individual needs: Promoting the literacy development of students who use AAC. Erickson, K., & Clendon, S. A. June 2005. 11-16.
- Re-thinking access to AAC technologies for young children: simplifying the learning demands. Light, J., & Drager, K. April 2004. 5-12.
- Rethinking sentence formulation in AAC. Patel, R. December 2001. 5-7.
- A student guide for successful inclusion. Kaye & Phillip (in collaboration with G. Van Tatenhove). September 1995. 12-14.
- System appeal/attitudes. Beukelman, D. R., & Light, J. August 2002. 21-23.
- Technology use among teens and young adults with autism and related disorders. Chung, P., & Tull, R. G. August 2000. 16-18.
- Ten years of technology. Ahlers, J., & Leiter, J. April 1994. 3-5.
- Unusual research partners. Beukelman, D. R. August 2002. 24.
- Using quality indicators to improve service delivery for assistive technology services in educational settings. McCloskey, S. R., & Zabala, J. S. November 2002. 3-6.

- Visual design: Implications for developing dynamic display systems. Scally, C. December 2001. 16-19.
- WebCrawlers—Taking AAC devices to a new level. Younkerman, T. December 2005. 9-10.
- What is an RERC? Williams, M. August 2002. 4-5.
- Word prediction: A time saver? Kwasniewski, J. August 1994. 4-5.
- Augmentative and Alternative Communication
- AAC and pediatric palliative care. Stuart, S. December 2004. 12-16.
- AAC: If you're not into it yet, you should be! Rodgers, N. M., & Brown, L. K. June 2005. 2-5
- AAC in the public schools-helpful Web sites. Culp, D. June 2005. 27-28.
- Addressing challenges to success with students who use augmentative and alternative communication in the school setting. Roth, K. D. June 2005. 24-26.
- The aging process and the affect on successful AAC use. Cumley, G. D., & Stuart, S. September 2005. 22-25.
- The ambiguous keyboard. Higginbotham, D. J., & Leshner, G. W. April 2004. 12-16.
- ASHA's new standards for pre-professional training in SLP and what they may mean for AAC. Ratcliff, A. December 2003. 22-24.
- The Bridge School: A community of practice in AAC. Hunt-Berg, M. June 2005. 6-10.
- A cultural perspective on augmentative and alternative communication. Soto, G. November 1994. 6-7.
- A Web site worth checking out: aac.unl.edu. Gillette, Y. August 2000. 15-16.
- Augmentative and alternative communication: A bibliography. Schlosser, R., Calculator, S., Finch, A., Kovach, T., & Sevcik, R. A. June 2001. 32-33.
- Augmentative and alternative communication considerations for adults with significant cognitive disabilities. DePaepe, P., Feeley, K., & Wood, L. A. April 2002. 20-25.
- Augmentative and alternative communication in ALS. Bardach, L., & Newman, D. December 2003. 14-21.
- Augmentative and alternative communication intervention in neurogenic disorders with acquired dysarthria. Mathy, P. April 2003. 11-17.
- Benefits of advanced AAC technology uses to adults with acquired aphasia. Steele, R. December 2004. 3-7.
- Categorical AAC assessment of persons with aphasia (PWA). Lasker, J. P. April 2002. 14-19.
- Children's attitudes toward peers who use AAC. Beck, A. R. June 2005. 20-23.
- A collaborative preservice program in AT and AAC. Kennedy, M., & Shiller, B. June 2004. 3-7.
- Communication and active participation (caregiver) issues. Scherz, J. September 2005. 20-21.
- Considering the efficiency of communicative options available to a beginning communicator. McComas, J. March 2001. 11-12.
- A consultative model for AAC/AT support: A team approach. McKamy, V., & Moore, J. R. June 2005. 16-20.
- Culture, families, and augmentative and alternative communication impact. Parette, H. P. May 2000. 3-6.
- Development of a model AAC syllabus: Exploring new competencies. Lasker, J. P. June 2004. 25-28.
- Early intervention and ACC assessment resources. Wood, L. December 2003. 12-13.
- Early intervention: Assessment issues. Lytton, R. September 2004. 22-24.
- The Edwin and Esther Prentke AAC distinguished lecture. Williams, B. March 2001. 15-16.
- Family issues in AAC. Angelo, D. November 1998. 4-6.
- Family participation in AAC. Lindsay, S. D. February 1999. 19.
- Gender differences in the communication of individuals with developmental disabilities. Wilkinson, K. December 1999. 6-8.
- If mama ain't happy, ain't nobody happy. Culp, D. December 2003. 3-9.
- The importance of addressing problem behavior among beginning communicators. Reichle, J. March 2001. 1-2.
- The importance of home and school connections. Kortz, D. November 1998. 6-7.
- Improving technologies for school-age children with severe physical handicaps. Sturm, J. August 2002. 12-13.
- Instructional programs teach literacy to AAC users. Hemphill, J. December 2005. 6-7.
- Interface design. Caves, K., DeRuyter, R., & Beukelman, D. R. August 2002. 8-11.
- Introduction. Sevcik, R. A. February 2003. 2.
- Is it easy or hard to "read" a picture? Gangkofer, M. H. September 1996. 4-5.
- Issues of language input and output in AAC with young children. Cheslock, M. September 2004. 11-14.
- Language and organization for adults with acquired disorders: Clinical framework for aphasia assessment. Lasker, J. P. September 2005. 10-14.
- Language, literacy, and AAC: Translating theory into practice. Foley, B. February 2003. 5-8.
- Meaningful data—Making sense of "+" and "-". Korsten, J. E. November 2002. 10-13
- Medicare coverage of voice amplifiers. Golinker, L. December 2004. 20.
- Multicultural demographics in AAC. Wasson, C. A. November 1994. 7.
- New access options for head pointing. Fager, S., Beukelman, D., Ball, L., & Jakobs, T. April 2004. 16-20.

- Organizational strategies. Beukelman, D. R., & Light, J. August 2002. 14-17.
- Our journey. Huer, M. B. November 1994. 9-10.
- Performance and usability. August 2002. Higginbotham, J., McNaughton, D., & Kovack, T. 17-19.
- Perspectives on teaching AAC. Cumley, G. D., & Robinson, N. B. June 2004. 2-3.
- The Picture Exchange Communication System. Frost, L. April 2003. 8-10.
- Reading development in AAC. Erickson, K. February 2003. 3-5.
- Reflections from a project director (1994-2000). Huer, M. B. May 2000. 14-16.
- Representational strategies. Light, J., & Beukelman, D. R. August 2002. 20-21.
- Responding to individual needs: Promoting the literacy development of students who use AAC. Erickson, K., & Clendon, S. A. June 2005. 11-16
- Re-thinking access to AAC technologies for young children: Simplifying the learning demands. Light, J. & Drager, K. April 2004. 5-12.
- The role of linguistic theory in AAC. Nyberg, E. September 1996. 7-9.
- Selecting reading and writing vocabulary for the AAC user. Lowe, M. A. April 2003. 3-7.
- Spot the funding: A hypothetical case study illustrating funding dilemmas of older age persons with communication disabilities. Broehl, M. March 1995. 11-12.
- Supporting AAC device users living in residential care settings. VanTatenhove, G. December 2004. 8-11.
- Symbolization and the young child with significant communication challenges. Zangari, C. September 2004. 19-21.
- System appeal/attitudes. Beukelman, D. R., & Light, J. August 2002. 21-23.
- Teaching parents to support their children's communication: Adaptations for AAC. Kaiser, A. P., & Hancock, T. B. September 2004. 4-6.
- There are no prerequisites for communication. Brady, N., Sevcik, R. A., Caves, K., Mclean, L., Mollica, B. M., Ronski, M., Snell, M., & Paul-Brown, D. August 2003. 27-29.
- Transitions in early intervention and AAC. Hidecker, M. J. C. September 2004. 15-19.
- Unusual research partners. Beukelman, D. R. August 2002. 24.
- Update from the National Joint Committee for the Communication Needs of Persons with Severe Disabilities. McLean, L. K., Mollica, B. M., Mirenda, P., Paul-Brown, D., Ronski, M. A., Sevcik, R. A., & Snell, M. E. June 2001. 24-27.
- Using evidence-based practice to guide decision making in AAC. Clark, E. A., & Clark, E. G. November 2002. 6-9.
- Using quality indicators to improve service delivery for assistive technology services in educational settings. McCloskey, S. R., & Zabala, J. S. November 2002. 3-6.
- "We have come a long way..." AAC and multiculturalism: From cultural awareness to cultural responsibility. Soto, G. May 2000. 1-3.
- What is an RERC? Williams, M. August 2002. 4-5.
- Why is yogurt good for you? Because it has live cultures. Mahendra, N., Ribera, J., Sevcik, R., Adler, R., Cheng, L., Davis-McFarland, E., Deal-Williams, V., Garrett, D., Riquelme, L., Salisbury, T., Schneider, W., & Villanueva, A. December 2004. 17-19.
- Working with low-income Latino families: Issues and strategies. McCord, S., & Soto, G. May 2000. 10-12.

Speech Assessment and Intervention

Assessment

- AAC clinical decision making for persons with ALS. Ball, L. J., Beukelman, E. R., & Pattee, G. L. April 2002. 7-12.
- Augmentative and alternative communication intervention in neurogenic disorders with acquired dysarthria. Mathy, P. April 2003. 11-17.
- Using quality indicators to improve service delivery for assistive technology services in educational settings. McCloskey, S. R., & Zabala, J. S. November 2002. 3-6.

Intervention

- AAC clinical decision making for persons with ALS. Ball, L. J., Beukelman, E. R., & Pattee, G. L. April 2002. 7-12.
- Developing preliteracy skills in children with severe speech and physical impairments: Fostering phonological awareness. Paul, R. November 1997. 10-11.
- Expanding expressive communication options for a person with severe aphasia. Garrett, K. March 1995. 5-7.
- Meaningful data—Making sense of "+" and "-". Korsten, J. E. November 2002. 10-13.
- Story telling as an augmentative communication approach for a man with severe apraxia of speech and expressive aphasia. Fried-Oken, M. March 1995. 3-4.
- Utilizing an AAC system to maximize receptive and expressive communication skills of a person with Alzheimer's disease. Leseth, L., & Meader, L. March 1995. 7-9.

Nonspeech Communication Systems

- AAC and pediatric palliative care. Stuart, S. December 2004. 12-16.
- AAC clinical decision making for persons with ALS. Ball, L. J., Beukelman, E. R., & Pattee, G. L. April 2002. 7-12.

- The ambiguous keyboard. Higginbotham, D. J., & Leshner, G. W. April 2004. 12-16.
- Augmentative and alternative communication intervention for individuals with chronic severe aphasia: An evidence-based practice process illustration. Corwin, M. & Koul, R. September 2003. 11-14.
- A collaborative preservice program in AT and AAC. Kennedy, M., & Shiller, B. June 2004. 3-7.
- Employment issues. McNaughton, S., and Bryen, D. August 2002. 5-8.
- If mama ain't happy, ain't nobody happy. Culp, D. December 2003. 3-9.
- Improving technologies for school-age children with severe physical handicaps. Sturm, J. August 2002. 12-13.
- In search of AAC access for all Individuals with complex communication needs. Culp, D. April 2004. 4-5.
- Interface design. Caves, K., DeRuyter, R., & Beukelman, D. R. August 2002. 8-11.
- Meaningful data—Making sense of “+” and “-”. Korsten, J. E. November 2002. 10-13.
- New access options for head pointing. Fager, S., Beukelman, D., Ball, L., & Jakobs, T. April 2004. 16-20.
- Organizational strategies. Beukelman, D. R., & Light, J. August 2002. 14-17.
- Performance and usability. August 2002. Higginbotham, J., McNaughton, D., & Kovack, T. 17-19.
- Representational strategies. Light, J., & Beukelman, D. R. August 2002. 20-21.
- Responding to a common early ACC question: “Will my child talk?”. Cress, C. December 2003. 10-11.
- Supporting AAC device users living in residential care settings. VanTatenhove, G. December 2004. 8-11.
- System appeal/attitudes. Beukelman, D. R., & Light, J. August 2002. 21-23.
- Unusual research partners. Beukelman, D. R. August 2002. 24.
- Using quality indicators to improve service delivery for assistive technology services in educational settings. McCloskey, S. R., & Zabala, J. S. November 2002. 3-6.
- What is an RERC? Williams, M. August 2002. 4-5.
- Assistive Technology
- AAC and pediatric palliative care. Stuart, S. December 2004. 12-16.
- AAC intervention for locked-in syndrome using the safe-laser access system. Fager, S., Beukelman, D., & Jakobs, T. April 2002. 4-6.
- The ambiguous keyboard. Higginbotham, D. J., & Leshner, G. W. April 2004. 12-16.
- Augmentative and alternative communication intervention in neurogenic disorders with acquired dysarthria. Mathy, P. April 2003. 11-17.
- A collaborative preservice program in AT and AAC. Kennedy, M., & Shiller, B. June 2004. 3-7.
- Employment issues. McNaughton, S., & Bryen, D. August 2002. 5-8.
- If mama ain't happy, ain't nobody happy. Culp, D. December 2003. 3-9.
- Improving technologies for school-age children with severe physical handicaps. Sturm, J. August 2002. 12-13.
- In search of AAC access for all individuals with complex communication needs. Culp, D. April 2004. 4-5.
- Interface design. Caves, K., DeRuyter, R., & Beukelman, D. R. August 2002. 8-11.
- ISAAC panel on Resna's assistive technology credentialing program. Lloyd, L. L. November 1996. 20.
- Meaningful data—Making sense of “+” and “-”. Korsten, J. E. November 2002. 10-13.
- New access options for head pointing. Fager, S., Beukelman, D., Ball, L., & Jakobs, T. April 2004. 16-20.
- Organizational strategies. Beukelman, D. R., & Light, J. August 2002. 14-17.
- Performance and usability. August 2002. Higginbotham, J., McNaughton, D., & Kovack, T. 17-19.
- Representational strategies. Light, J., & Beukelman, D. R. August 2002. 20-21.
- Responding to a common early ACC question: “Will my child talk?”. Cress, C. December 2003. 10-11.
- System appeal/attitudes. Beukelman, D. R., & Light, J. August 2002. 21-23.
- Unusual research partners. Beukelman, D. R. August 2002. 24.
- Using quality indicators to improve service delivery for assistive technology services in educational settings. McCloskey, S. R., & Zabala, J. S. November 2002. 3-6.
- WebCrawlers—Taking AAC devices to a new level. Younkerman, T. December 2005. 9-10.
- What is an RERC? Williams, M. August 2002. 4-5.
- Augmentative and Alternative Communication
- AAC and pediatric palliative care. Stuart, S. December 2004. 12-16.
- AAC clinical decision making for persons with ALS. Ball, L. J., Beukelman, E. R., & Pattee, G. L. April 2002. 7-12.
- AAC in the public schools-helpful Web sites. Culp, D. June 2005. 27-28.
- Addressing challenges to success with students who use augmentative and alternative communication in the school setting. Roth, K. D. June 2005. 24-26.
- The ambiguous keyboard. Higginbotham, D. J., & Leshner, G. W. April 2004. 12-16.
- ASHA's new standards for pre-professional training in SLP and what they may mean for AAC. Ratcliff, A. December 2003. 22-24.
- Augmentative and alternative communication in ALS. Bardach, L., & Newman, D. December 2003. 14-21.

- Augmentative and alternative communication intervention in neurogenic disorders with acquired dysarthria. Mathy, P. April 2003. 11-17.
- The Bridge School: A community of practice in AAC. Hunt-Berg, M. June 2005. 6-10.
- Children's attitudes toward peers who use AAC. Beck, A. R. June 2005. 20-23.
- A collaborative preservice program in AT and AAC. Kennedy, M., & Shiller, B. June 2004. 3-7.
- Communication and active participation (caregiver) issues. Scherz, J. September 2005. 20-21.
- A consultative model for AAC/AT support: A team approach. McKamy, V., & Moore, J. R. June 2005. 16-20.
- Development of a model AAC syllabus: Exploring new competencies. Lasker, J. P. June 2004. 25-28.
- Employment issues. McNaughton, S., & Bryen, D. August 2002. 5-8.
- If mama ain't happy, ain't nobody happy. Culp, D. December 2003. 3-9.
- Improving technologies for school-age children with severe physical handicaps. Sturm, J. August 2002. 12-13.
- In search of AAC access for all individuals with complex communication needs. Culp, D. April 2004. 4-5.
- Interface design. Caves, K., DeRuyter, R., & Beukelman, D. R. August 2002. 8-11.
- Meaningful data—Making sense of “+” and “-”. Korsten, J. E. November 2002. 10-13.
- New access options for head pointing. Fager, S., Beukelman, D., Ball, L., & Jakobs, T. April 2004. 16-20.
- Organizational strategies. Beukelman, D. R., & Light, J. August 2002. 14-17.
- Performance and usability. August 2002. Higginbotham, J., McNaughton, D., & Kovack, T. 17-19.
- Representational strategies. Light, J., & Beukelman, D. R. August 2002. 20-21.
- System appeal/attitudes. Beukelman, D. R., & Light, J. August 2002. 21-23.
- Transitions in early intervention and AAC. Hidecker, M. J. C. September 2004. 15-19.
- Unusual research partners. Beukelman, D. R. August 2002. 24.
- Using evidence-based practice to guide decision making in AAC. Clark, E. A., & Clark, E. G. November 2002. 6-9.
- Using quality indicators to improve service delivery for assistive technology services in educational settings. McCloskey, S. R., & Zabala, J. S. November 2002. 3-6.
- What is an RERC? Williams, M. August 2002. 4-5.
- Professional Affairs
- Professional Standards and Ethics
- AAC knowledge and skills. Calculator, S. N. November 2002. 17-18.
- Addressing challenges to success with students who use augmentative and alternative communication in the school setting. Roth, K. D. June 2005. 24-26.
- ASHA's new standards for pre-professional training in SLP and what they may mean for AAC. Ratcliff, A. December 2003. 22-24.
- Comments on ethical dilemmas. Effinger, J. November 1996. 16-17.
- Development of a model AAC syllabus: Exploring new competencies. Lasker, J. P. June 2004. 25-28.
- End-of-life issues for people who use AAC. Fried-Oken, M., & Bardach, L. September 2005. 15-19.
- Ethical dilemmas: Defending principles in the “real world.” Kangas, K. September 1996. 14-16.
- Ethical dilemmas: Defending principles in the “real world,” Part II. Kangas, K. November 1996. 11-14.
- Meaningful data — Making sense of “+” and “-”. Korsten, J. E. November 2002. 10-13.
- Response to “Ethical dilemmas.” Staugler, K. November 1996. 14-16.
- The road to full-time employment. Rackensperger, T. December 2005. 8-9.
- Update on Medicare and speech generating devices. Doyle, M., & Burton, W. April 2005. 13-18.
- Using quality indicators to improve service delivery for assistive technology services in educational settings. McCloskey, S. R., & Zabala, J. S. November 2002. 3-6.
- Will ASHA's new structure meet your needs? Lloyd, L. L. August 1997. 17-19.
- Governmental and Professional Regulations
- Development of a model AAC syllabus: Exploring new competencies. Lasker, J. P. June 2004. 25-28.
- Insurance funding for AAC devices: Update. Golinker, L. February 2003. 12.
- International activities in AAC. Huer, M. B. August 2003. 17-19.
- Medicaid AAC device funding for nursing facility residents. Golinker, L. August 2003. 29-33.
- Medicare coverage of voice amplifiers. Golinker, L. December 2004. 20.
- Medicare eliminates computer-based device exclusion: A new class of AAC device emerges. Golinker, L. June 2001. 29-32.
- Medicare funding for AAC devices. Golinker, L. May 1998. 11-12.
- Medicare now covers AAC devices. Golinker, L. March 2001. 12-14.
- Oregon's Medicaid program and managed care: A case study of legal issues. Sundberg, R. May 1998. 6.
- The Oregon health plan: Understanding implications for people with disabilities. Starr, J. May 1998. 7-8.
- The reality of managed health care: Implications for AAC service delivery. Murphy, J. W. May 1998. 4-5.

- Two realities: How the social conditions of society affect the quality of life of people with disabilities (Personal and economic points of view). Rakhman, S. V. August 2003. 20-27.
- Understanding social security disability and work incentives. Antcil, T. M. February 1998. 5-7.
- ### Service Provision Models and Problems
- AAC and literacy summer program: Facilitating transfer of content and methods to the regular academic classroom. Damico, S. May 1997. 6-7.
- AAC: Growing in Poland. Smyzek, A. August 2003. 8-11.
- AAC in developing countries: The Centre for AAC at the University of Pretoria, South Africa. Alant, E. August 2003. 6-8.
- AAC in the public schools—Helpful Web sites. Culp, D. June 2005. 27-28.
- AAC in Singapore: Blending culture, language, and technology to serve our island's people. Yong, S. August 2003. 11-14.
- AAC intervention research with children and youth With moderate and severe disabilities in Brazil. d'Oliveira de Paula Nunes, L. R. August 2003. 2-6.
- AAC knowledge and skills. Calculator, S. N. November 2002. 17-18.
- AAC over the long haul. Gradel, K. November 1998. 9-10.
- An AAC training program with emphasis on collaboration and inclusion. Soto, G. June 2004. 13-16.
- ACES: Augmentative communication and empowerment supports. Bryen, D. N., & Slesaransky-Poe, G. May 1997. 15-17.
- Acts. Buzolich, M. J. April 1994. 3.
- The aging process and the affect on successful AAC use. Cumley, G. D., & Stuart, S. September 2005. 22-25.
- Assistive technology: School-related issues. McCloskey, S. R. November 2002. 2-3.
- Children's attitudes toward peers who use AAC. Beck, A. R. June 2005. 20-23.
- Delivery of AAC services to a rural American Indian community. Bridges, S. May 2000. 6-9.
- The EBP experiences of an AAC service provider: Diving in deep. Olsson, C. September 2003. 15-19.
- End-of-life issues for people who use AAC. Fried-Oken, M., & Bardach, L. September 2005. 15-19.
- Engineering the classroom for ACC. Merrie, M., Holloway, K., Frana, N., & Gibbroek, J. November 1993. 6-8.
- Expanding our understanding of AAC in Hong Kong. Sevick R. A., & Romski, M. August 2003. 14-16.
- Forming parent and professional partnerships. Armstrong, J. S. November 1998. 7-9.
- Framing the transition issues: "Take one giant step." "Mother may I?" Fried-Oken, M., & Bersani, H. February 1998. 3.
- Hurry, hurry, find the fire! Kempka, D. November 1995. 7-8.
- "I brought my talker, my sleeping bag, and my little brother!" Sementelli, C. May 1997. 8.
- If mama ain't happy, ain't nobody happy. Culp, D. December 2003. 3-9.
- Inclusion: Communication technology and the classroom. McCloskey, S. R. September 1995. 4-6.
- Inclusion: Team decision making and augmentative and alternative communication services. Reed, P. R. September 1995. 8-9.
- International activities in AAC. Huer, M. B. August 2003. 17-19.
- Language, literacy, and AAC: Translating theory into practice. Foley, B. February 2003. 5-8.
- Meaningful data—Making sense of "+" and "-". Korsten, J. E. November 2002. 10-13.
- Mom went to speech instead of the beach: Camp Chatterbox—Children's specialized hospital. Bruno, J. May 1997. 11-13.
- My story of managed care. Wilder, K. (for T. Ayers). May 1998. 8-10.
- Nonverbal immediacy: Communicative salience during interpersonal interactions. Sargent, J. E. September 2005. 4-7.
- Oregon's Medicaid program and managed care: A case study of legal issues. Sundberg, R. May 1998. 6.
- Personal perspectives on transition and assistive technology. Ward, M. J. February 1998. 7-8.
- The reality of managed health care: Implications for AAC service delivery. Murphy, J. W. May 1998. 4-5.
- Remembering key points for inclusion. Osborn, S. R. September 1995. 9-12.
- Responding to a common early ACC question: "Will my child talk?" Cress, C. December 2003. 10-11.
- The road to full-time employment. Rackensperger, T. December 2005. 8-9.
- Running the maze. Deputy, P. N. August 1993. 4-5.
- The SETT framework: Choosing and using tools that promote inclusion through communication participation, and productivity. Zabala, J. September 1995. 6-8.
- Sharing a dream: A summer institute for language and literacy. Staehely, J., Murphy, J., & Myers, C. May 1997. 13-14.
- Special educators and SLPs working together to provide AAC services. Beck, A., & Thompson, J. R. December 2000. 13-14.
- A student guide for successful inclusion. Kaye & Phillip (in collaboration with G. Van Tatenhove). September 1995. 12-14.
- Supporting AAC device users living in residential care settings. VanTatenhove, G. December 2004. 8-11.
- A tale of two transitions. Nelson, B., Howell, M., & Ross, J. February 1998. 9-10.
- Ten years of technology. Ahlers, J., & Leiter, J. April 1994. 3-5.

There are no prerequisites for communication. Brady, N., Sevcik, R. A., Caves, K., Mclean, L., Mollica, B. M., Rowski, M., Snell, M., & Paul-Brown, D. August 2003. 27-29.

Transition planning: Not just a good IDEA, it's the law! Bersani, H. A., & Fried-Oken, M. February 1998. 4-5.

Transitions in early intervention and AAC. Hidecker, M. J. C. September 2004. 15-19.

Two realities: How the social conditions of society affect the quality of life of people with disabilities (Personal and economic points of view). Rakhman, S. V. August 2003. 20-27.

Using quality indicators to improve service delivery for assistive technology services in educational settings. McCloskey, S. R., & Zabala, J. S. November 2002. 3-6.

Research Issues and Methodology

AAC in the public schools—Helpful Web sites. Culp, D. June 2005. 27-28.

Breaking down barriers in geriatrics. Eberle, C.M. September 2005. 7-9.

The Bridge School: A community of practice in AAC. Hunt-Berg, M. June 2005. 6-10.

Clinician and researcher database in augmentative and alternative communication. Koul, R., & Schlosser, R. September 2001. 22-24.

End-of-life issues for people who use AAC. Fried-Oken, M., & Bardach, L. September 2005. 15-19.

Empirically validated strategies, evidence-based practice, and basic principles in communication intervention for learners with developmental disabilities. Sigafos, J., & Drasgow, E. September 2003. 7-10.

Employment issues. McNaughton, S., & Bryen, D. August 2002. 5-8.

Graduate assistantship experience promotes research foundation for clinical practice. Browning, J., Lococo, V., Forrest, S., & Fox, A. February 1999. 13-14.

Improving technologies for school-age children with severe physical handicaps. Sturm, J. August 2002. 12-13.

Interface design. Caves, K., DeRuyter, R., & Beukelman, D. R. August 2002. 8-11.

Introduction. Sevcik, R. A. February 2003. 2.

Issues of language input and output in AAC with young children. Cheslock, M. September 2004. 11-14.

Nonverbal immediacy: Communicative salience during interpersonal interactions. Sargent, J. E. September 2005. 4-7.

Organizational strategies. Beukelman, D. R., & Light, J. August 2002. 14-17.

Performance and usability. August 2002. Higginbotham, J., McNaughton, D., & Kovack, T. 17-19.

Representational strategies. Light, J., & Beukelman, D. R. August 2002. 20-21.

Reading development: Models and processes. Morris, R. D., & Sevcik, R. A. February 2003. 3-5.

Reading development in AAC. Erickson, K. February 2003. 8-10.

Research with young children at risk for speech/language development disorders. Sevcik, R. A. May 1999. 1-4.

Re-thinking access to AAC technologies for young children: Simplifying the learning demands. Light, J., & Drager, K. April 2004. 5-12.

System appeal/attitudes. Beukelman, D. R., & Light, J. August 2002. 21-23.

Translating theory into practice: A baker's dozen. Swengel, K., & Armstrong, J. S. November 1998. 3-4.

Unusual research partners. Beukelman, D. R. August 2002. 24.

Update on Medicare and speech generating devices. Doyle, M., & Burton, W. April 2005. 13-18.

Virtually speaking. Blackstone, S. W. November 2002. 2-3.

What is an RERC? Williams, M. August 2002. 4-5.

Interdisciplinary Concerns

AAC: If you're not into it yet, you should be! Rodgers, N. M., & Brown, L. K. June 2005. 2-5

AAC in the public schools—helpful Web sites. Culp, D. June 2005. 27-28.

An AAC training program with emphasis on collaboration and inclusion. Soto, G. June 2004. 13-16.

Breaking down barriers in geriatrics. Eberle, C. M. September 2005. 7-9.

The Bridge School: A community of practice in AAC. Hunt-Berg, M. June 2005. 6-10.

Development of a model AAC syllabus: Exploring new competencies. Lasker, J. P. June 2004. 25-28.

Employment issues. McNaughton, S., & Bryen, D. August 2002. 5-8.

Finding the hidden metaphor. Baker, B. September 1996. 5-7.

Inclusion: Team decision making and augmentative and alternative communication services. Reed, P. R. September 1995. 8-9.

Nonverbal immediacy: Communicative salience during interpersonal interactions. Sargent, J. E. September 2005. 4-7.

The Penn State partnerships in AAC project: A multidisciplinary preservice program for speech-language pathologists and special education teachers. Light, J., McNaughton, D., Drager, K., Roberts, B., & Wilson, K. June 2004. 8-12.

Perspectives on teaching AAC. Cumley, G. D., & Robinson, N. B. June 2004. 2-3.

Psychological perspectives of AAC use. Seaver, R. I. September 1996. 9-13.

The road to full-time employment. Rackensperger, T. December 2005. 8-9.

The role of linguistic theory in AAC. Nyberg, E. September 1996. 7-9.

Tricare expands SGD coverage. Golinker, L. September 2005. 25-26.

Update on Medicare and speech generating devices. Doyle, M., & Burton, W. April 2005. 13-18.

The value of the interdisciplinary team evaluation in the assessment of individuals with AAC needs. Becker, L. B. September 1999. 5-6.

WebCrawlers—Taking AAC devices to a new level. Younkerman, T. December 2005. 9-10.

Professional Training

Education and Continuing Education

- AAC and pediatric palliative care. Stuart, S. December 2004. 12-16.
- AAC at ASHA News. Glennen, S. September 2003. 19.
- AAC curriculum, or placing the cart before the horse. Calculator, S. N. November 1996. 4-5.
- AAC in the public schools—Helpful Web sites. Culp, D. June 2005. 27-28.
- AAC knowledge and skills. Calculator, S. N. November 2002. 17-18.
- AAC training practices in speech-language pathology and special education programs at historically Black colleges and universities. Harris, O. February 1999. 11-12.
- An AAC training program at an historically Black university. Harris, O. May 2000. 12-13.
- An AAC training program with emphasis on collaboration and inclusion. Soto, G. June 2004. 13-16.
- The aging process and the affect on successful AAC use. Cumley, G. D., & Stuart, S. September 2005. 22-25.
- AAC-RERC writers brigade: Purpose, function, and outcome. Schwartz, J. December 2005. 3-4.
- The ASHA specialty recognition program is here! Moon, J. June 1996. 3-4.
- ASHA 2002 AAC program. Higdon, C. W. November 2002. 14-16.
- ASHA's new standards for pre-professional training in SLP and what they may mean for AAC. Ratcliff, A. December 2003. 22-24.
- Assessing expertise in AAC. Harlan, N., & Kravitz, E. June 1996. 7-9.
- Augmentative and alternative communication: Challenges at the preservice level. Ratcliff, A. February 1999. 2.
- Augmentative and alternative communication (AAC) resources for professional preparation. Division 12 Professional Preparation Committee. December 2001. (Supplement) 1-13.
- Benefits of advanced AAC technology uses to adults with acquired aphasia. Steele, R. December 2004. 3-7.
- Breaking down barriers in geriatrics. Eberle, C. M. September 2005. 7-9.
- Clinician's education associated with AAC. Finch, A., & Meier, S. September 1999. 2-4.
- A collaborative preservice program in AT and AAC. Kennedy, M., & Shiller, B. June 2004. 3-7.
- Credentialing considerations. Fagan, E. November 1996. 20-22.
- Development of a model AAC syllabus: Exploring new competencies. Lasker, J. P. June 2004. 25-28.
- Direct vs indirect time: What are the needs in AAC? Bruno, J. November 1992. 2-3.
- Educating, credentialing and employing health care providers: A view of our profession as seen by the PEW health professions commission. Goldsmith, S. August 1994. 7-9.
- Financial aspects of specialty recognition. Cottier, C., & Fishman, I. June 1996. 9-10.
- Graduate assistantship experience promotes research foundation for clinical practice. Browning, J., Lococo, V., Forrest, S., & Fox, A. February 1999. 13-14.
- International activities in AAC. Huer, M. B. August 2003. 17-19.
- ISAAC panel on Resna's assistive technology credentialing program. Lloyd, L. L. November 1996. 20.
- Language, literacy, and AAC: Translating theory into practice. Foley, B. February 2003. 5-8.
- Nonverbal immediacy: Communicative salience during interpersonal interactions. Sargent, J. E. September 2005. 4-7.
- Online instruction in AAC: Engaging the learner. Zangari, C. June 2004. 20-24.
- The Penn State partnerships in AAC project: A multidisciplinary preservice program for speech-language pathologists and special education teachers. Light, J., McNaughton, D., Drager, K., Roberts, B., & Wilson, K. June 2004. 8-12.
- Perspectives on teaching AAC. Cumley, G. D., & Robinson, N. B. June 2004. 2-3.
- Questions and answers about Resna's quality assurance activities. Cress, C. November 1995. 13-15.
- Rationale for preservice training in AAC. Ratcliff, A. February 1999. 3-6.
- Resna credentialing program. Watkins, C. W. June 1996. 11-12.
- Resna's AAC credentialing activities. Lloyd, L. L. June 1996. 12-14.
- Service learning model for preprofessional preparation in AAC at New Mexico State University. Stuart, S. February 1999. 7.
- Should AAC be taught as a separate curriculum? Erickson, K. A., & Koppenhaver, D. A. November 1996. 5-7.
- Specialty recognition. Wilkinson, K. M. May 1999. 13.
- Specialty recognition. Zangari, C. November 1998. 12.
- Specialty Recognition Committee final report—May 23, 2001. Kravitz, E., Bruno, J., Tullman, J., Wilkinson, K., Wiseman, V. A., & Zangari, C. September 2001. 20-22.
- Specialty recognition in ACC. Kraat, A. August 1994. 5-7.
- Supporting AAC device users living in residential care settings. VanTatenhove, G. December 2004. 8-11.
- Teaching resources in AAC and distance learning. Gillette, Y. February 1999. 16-18.
- They said it couldn't be done, but we did it anyway. Lloyd, L. L., & Puffpaff, L. February 1999. 8-11.
- Toward autonomy in AAC practice. Sweeney, L. A. August 1993. 2-4.

- Tricare expands SGD coverage. Golinker, L. September 2005. 25-26.
- The United States Society for Augmentative and Alternative Communication. Kovach, T. August 2003. 19-20.
- Using Internet sources within and beyond the classroom. Dowden, P. June 2004. 17-20.
- WebCrawlers—Taking AAC devices to a new level. Younkerman, T. December 2005. 9-10.
- What an experience—A preservice training opportunity! Talking with technology camp. Moore, S. M., Kovach, T. M., & Donaldson, C. A. May 1997. 9-11.
- What is NJC doing for children and adults with severe disabilities? Paul-Brown, D. December 1999. 8-10.
- Where are we with specialty recognition? Zangari, C. June 1996. 4-6. Why is yogurt good for you? Because it has live cultures. Mahendra, N., Ribera, J., Sevcik, R., Adler, R., Cheng, L., Davis-McFarland, E., Deal-Williams, V., Garrett, D., Riquelme, L., Salisbury, T., Schneider, W., & Villanueva, A. December 2004. 17-19.

Counseling

- Addressing challenges to success with students who use augmentative and alternative communication in the school setting. Roth, K. D. June 2005. 24-26.
- Children's attitudes toward peers who use AAC. Beck, A. R. June 2005. 20-23.
- End-of-life issues for people who use AAC. Fried-Oken, M., & Bardach, L. September 2005. 15-19.
- If mama ain't happy, ain't nobody happy. Culp, D. December 2003. 3-9.
- Teaching parents to support their children's communication: Adaptations for AAC. Kaiser, A. P., & Hancock, T. B. September 2004. 4-6.

Title Index

- AAC and literacy summer program: Facilitating transfer of content and methods to the regular academic classroom. Damico, S. May 1997. 6-7.
- AAC and our family! Interview with Carol Sneath, mother of Melissa. Swengel, K. November 1998. 10-12.
- AAC and pediatric palliative care. Stuart, S. December 2004. 12-16.
- AAC at ASHA news. Glennen, S. September 2003. 19.
- AAC clinical decision making for persons with ALS. Ball, L. J., Beukelman, E. R., Pattee, G. L. April 2002. 7-12.
- AAC curriculum, or placing the cart before the horse. Calculator, S. N. November 1996. 4-5.
- AAC: Growing in Poland. Smyzek, A. August 2003. 8-11.
- AAC: If you're not into it yet, you should be! Rodgers, N. M., & Brown, L. K. June 2005. 2-5
- AAC in developing countries: The Centre for AAC at the University of Pretoria, South Africa. Alant, E. August 2003. 6-8.
- AAC in Singapore: Blending culture, language, and technology to serve our island's people. Yong, S. August 2003. 11-14.
- AAC in the public schools—Helpful Web sites. Culp, D. June 2005. 27-28.
- AAC intervention for locked-in syndrome using the safe-laser access system. Fager, S., Beukelman, D., & Jakobs, T. April 2002. 4-6.
- AAC intervention research with children and youth with moderate and severe disabilities in Brazil. d'Oliveira de Paula Nunes, L. R. August 2003. 2-6.
- AAC knowledge and skills. Calculator, S. N. November 2002. 17-18.
- AAC over the long haul. Gradel, K. November 1998. 9-10.
- AAC training practices in speech-language pathology and special education programs at historically Black colleges and universities. Harris, O. February 1999. 11-12.
- An AAC training program at an historically Black university. Harris, O. May 2000. 12-13.
- An AAC training program with emphasis on collaboration and inclusion. Soto, G. June 2004. 13-16.
- AAC-RERC writers brigade: Purpose, function, and outcome. Schwartz, J. December 2005. 3-4.
- ACES: Augmentative communication and empowerment supports. Bryen, D. N., & Slesaransky-Poe, G. May 1997. 15-17.
- Acts. Buzolich, M. J. April 1994. 3.
- Addressing challenges to success with students who use augmentative and alternative communication in the school setting. Roth, K. D. June 2005. 24-26.
- The aging process and the affect on successful AAC use. Cumley, G. D., & Stuart, S. September 2005. 22-25.
- The ambiguous keyboard. Higginbotham, D. J., & Leshner, G. W. April 2004. 12-16.
- The ASHA specialty recognition program is here! Moon, J. June 1996. 3-4.
- ASHA 2002 AAC program. Higdon, C. W. November 2002. 14-16.
- ASHA's new standards for pre-professional training in SLP and what they may mean for AAC. Ratcliff, A. December 2003. 22-24.
- Assessing expertise in AAC. Harlan, N., & Kravitz, E. June 1996. 7-9.
- Assessing the school-aged child for AAC. Bruno, J. April 2005. 3-7.
- Assistive technology: School-related issues. McCloskey, S. R. November 2002. 2-3.
- AT access and individuals with mental retardation: Documentation of the need and the barriers. Mollica, B. M. December 1999. 4-5.
- Augmentative and alternative communication: A bibliography. Schlosser, R., Calculator, S., Finch, A., Kovach, T., & Sevcik, R. A. June 2001. 32-33.
- Augmentative and alternative communication: Challenges at the preservice level. Ratcliff, A. February 1999. 2.

- Augmentative and alternative communication in ALS. Bardach, L., & Newman, D. December 2003. 14-21.
- Augmentative and alternative communication intervention for individuals with chronic severe aphasia: An evidence-based practice process illustration. Corwin, M., & Koul, R. September 2003. 11-15.
- Augmentative and alternative communication intervention in neurogenic disorders with acquired dysarthria. Mathy, P. April 2003. 11-17.
- Augmentative and alternative communication (AAC) resources for professional preparation. Division 12 Professional Preparation Committee. December 2001. (Supplement) 1-13.
- Augmentative communication as a medical necessity. Lytton, R. April 1994. 6-8.
- Augmentative and alternative communication considerations for adults with significant cognitive disabilities. DePaepe, P., Feeley, K., & Wood, L. A. April 2002. 20-25.
- Augmented language intervention project: From school-aged youth to toddlers. Cheslock, M., Ronski, M. A., Sevcik, R. A., & Adamson, L. B. June 2001. 15-17.
- Availability and accessibility in whole utterance-based devices. Todman, J. December 2001. 8-11.
- Back to the future: Don't forget the knowledge we have as we move into the next century. Ronski, M. A. December 1999. 2-3.
- Benefits of advanced AAC technology uses to adults with acquired aphasia. Steele, R. December 2004. 3-7.
- Beyond calendar boxes: The importance of systematic instruction of the van Dijk approach for learners who are deaf-blind. MacFarland, S. Z. December 2000. 4-7.
- Breaking down barriers in geriatrics. Eberle, C. M. September 2005. 7-9.
- The Bridge School: A community of practice in AAC. Hunt-Berg, M. June 2005. 6-10.
- But what can they do? Assessment of communication skills in children with severe and multiple disabilities. Rowland, C. April 2005. 7-12.
- Categorical AAC assessment of persons with aphasia (PWA). Lasker, J. P. April 2002. 14-19.
- Children's attitudes toward peers who use AAC. Beck, A. R. June 2005. 20-23.
- Clinician and researcher database in augmentative and alternative communication. Koul, R., & Schlosser, R. September 2001. 22-24.
- Clinician's education associated with AAC. Finch, A., & Meier, S. September 1999. 2-4.
- A collaborative preservice program in AT and AAC. Kennedy, M., & Shiller, B. June 2004. 3-7.
- Comments on ethical dilemmas. Effinger, J. November 1996. 16-17.
- Communication and active participation (caregiver) issues. Scherz, J. September 2005. 20-21.
- A communication "tools" model for AAC intervention with early communicators. Cress, C. J. June 2001. 20-22.
- Comprehension and production in AAC. Brady, N. C. June 2001. 17-19.
- Considerations in the assessment and treatment of bilingual individuals. Saenz, T. I., & Huer, M. B. November 1994. 8-9.
- Considering the efficiency of communicative options available to a beginning communicator. McComas, J. March 2001. 11-12.
- A consultative model for AAC/AT support: A team approach. McKamy, V., & Moore, J. R. June 2005. 16-20.
- Contemporary research in symbolic development: Factors influencing acquisition in typically developing children. Namy, L. September 2004. 7-10.
- Context is the key. Kovach, T. November 1996. 7-10.
- Credentialing considerations. Fagan, E. November 1996. 20-22.
- A cultural perspective on augmentative and alternative communication. Soto, G. November 1994. 6-7.
- Culture, families, and augmentative and alternative communication impact. Parette, H. P. May 2000. 3-6.
- Delivery of AAC services to a rural American Indian community. Bridges, S. May 2000. 6-9.
- Developing an intervention strategy to replace challenging behavior used to escape undesired activities: A case example. Dropik, P., & Reichle, J. March 2001. 8-10.
- Developing preliteracy skills in children with severe speech and physical impairments: Fostering phonological awareness. Paul, R. November 1997. 10-11.
- Development of a model AAC syllabus: Exploring new competencies. Lasker, J. P. June 2004. 25-28.
- Direct vs indirect time: What are the needs in AAC? Bruno, J. November 1992. 2-3.
- Early intervention and ACC assessment resources. Wood, L. December 2003. 12-13.
- Early intervention: Assessment issues. Lytton, R. September 2004. 22-24.
- Early literacy activities and language learning opportunities for children who use AAC. Wood, L. A. June 2001. 10-11.
- Educating, credentialing and employing health care providers: A view of our profession as seen by the PEW health professions commission. Goldsmith, S. August 1994. 7-9.
- The Edwin and Esther Prentke AAC distinguished lecture. Williams, B. March 2001. 15-16.
- The EBP experiences of an AAC service provider: Diving in deep. Olsson, C. September 2003. 15-19.
- Empirically validated strategies, evidence-based practice, and basic principles in communication intervention for learners with developmental disabilities. Sigafos, J., & Drasgow, E. September 2003. 7-10.

- Employment issues. McNaughton, S., & Bryen, D. August 2002. 5-8.
- End-of-life issues for people who use AAC. Fried-Oken, M., & Bardach, L. September 2005. 15-19.
- Engineering the classroom for ACC. Merrie, M., Holloway, K., Frana, N., & Gibbroek, J. November 1993. 6-8.
- Ethical dilemmas: Defending principles in the "real world," Part II. Kangas, K. November 1996. 11-14.
- Ethical dilemmas: Defending principles in the "real world." Kangas, K. September 1996. 14-16.
- Evidence-based practice: Frequently asked questions, myths, and resources. Schlosser, R. W. September 2003. 4-7.
- Evidence-based practice: Meeting the challenge. Schlosser, R. W. September 2003. 3-4.
- Expanding communicative participation using augmentative and alternative communication within a game playing activity for a man with severe aphasia. Stuart, S. March 1995. 9-11.
- Expanding expressive communication options for a person with severe aphasia. Garrett, K. March 1995. 5-7.
- Expanding our understanding of AAC in Hong Kong. Sevcik, R. A., & Ronski, M. August 2003. 14-16.
- Facilitating literacy development in AAC users. McNairn, P. April 1994. 8-9.
- Family issues in AAC. Angelo, D. November 1998. 4-6.
- Family participation in AAC. Lindsay, S. D. February 1999. 19.
- Field of dreams. Van Tatenhove, G. M. November 1993. 8-11.
- Financial aspects of specialty recognition. Cottier, C., & Fishman, I. June 1996. 9-10.
- Finding the hidden metaphor. Baker, B. September 1996. 5-7.
- Forming parent and professional partnerships. Armstrong, J. S. November 1998. 7-9.
- Framing the transition issues: "Take one giant step." "Mother may I?" Fried-Oken, M., & Bersani, H. February 1998. 3.
- Friendship: A social, educational, and communication concern for children who are deaf-blind. Sall, N. December 2000. 7-9.
- From the guest editor. Blischak, D. December 2000. 2.
- Gender differences in the communication of individuals with developmental disabilities. Wilkinson, K. December 1999. 6-8.
- Gestures in development: Implications for early intervention in AAC. Hunt-Berg, M. June 2001. 4-7.
- Graduate assistantship experience promotes research foundation for clinical practice. Browning, J., Lococo, V., Forrest, S., & Fox, A. February 1999. 13-14.
- Grammatical development and AAC. Sutton, A. November 1997. 7-9.
- Helping families gain acceptance of AAC strategies. Zangari, C. June 2001. 12-15.
- Helping the AAC user acquire grammatical morphology. Blockberger, S. November 1997. 5-7.
- Hurry, hurry, find the fire! Kempka, D. November 1995. 7-8.
- "I brought my talker, my sleeping bag, and my little brother!" Sementelli, C. May 1997. 8.
- Identifying intentional communication in children with severe disabilities. Hetzroni, O. E. June 2001. 7-10.
- If mama ain't happy, ain't nobody happy. Culp, D. December 2003. 3-9.
- In search of AAC access for all individuals with complex communication needs. Culp, D. April 2004. 4-5.
- The importance of addressing problem behavior among beginning communicators. Reichle, J. March 2001. 1-2.
- The importance of home and school connections. Kortz, D. November 1998. 6-7.
- Improving technologies for school-age children with severe physical handicaps. Sturm, J. August 2002. 12-13.
- Inclusion: Communication technology and the classroom. McCloskey, S. R. September 1995. 4-6.
- Inclusion: Team decision making and augmentative and alternative communication services. Reed, P. R. September 1995. 8-9.
- Instructional programs teach literacy to AAC users. Hemphill, J. December 2005. 6-7.
- Insurance funding for AAC devices: Update. Golinker, L. February 2003. 12.
- Interface design. Caves, K., DeRuyter, R., & Beukelman, D. R. August 2002. 8-11.
- International activities in AAC. Huer, M. B. August 2003. 17-19.
- Interview with a master storyteller. Palenzuela, M. December 2000. 9-10.
- Introduction. Sevcik, R.A. February 2003. 2.
- Introduction: Research on utterance-based communication. Higginbotham, D. J. December 2001. 2-5.
- Introduction to the DIV 12 conference issue. Ball, L. J. September 2005. 2.
- Is it easy or hard to "read" a picture? Gangkofer, M. H. September 1996. 4-5.
- ISAAC panel on Resna's assistive technology credentialing program. Lloyd, L. L. November 1996. 20.
- Issues of language input and output in AAC with young children. Cheslock, M. September 2004. 11-14.
- Language and AAC intervention in young children: Never too early or too late to start. Cress, C. J., & Wood, L. A. June 2001. 2-3.
- Language and organization for adults with acquired disorders: Clinical framework for aphasia assessment. Lasker, J. P. September 2005. 10-14.
- Language, literacy, and AAC: Translating theory into practice. Foley, B. February 2003. 5-8.

- Language production with cognitively challenged adults: A case study. Van Tatenhove, G. M. November 1997. 12-16.
- Living with a communication device. Pecunas, P. April 2002. 27-30.
- Making dramatic centers print rich. King-DeBaun, P. November 1995. 3-4.
- Meaningful data—Making sense of “+” and “-”. Korsten, J. E. November 2002. 10-13. Medicaid AAC device funding for nursing facility residents. Golinker, L. August 2003. 29-33.
- Medicare coverage of voice amplifiers. Golinker, L. December 2004. 20.
- Medicare eliminates computer-based device exclusion: A new class of AAC device emerges. Golinker, L. June 2001. 29-32.
- Medicare funding for AAC devices. Golinker, L. May 1998. 11-12.
- Medicare now covers AAC devices. Golinker, L. March 2001. 12-14.
- New access options for head pointing. Fager, S., Beukelman, D., Ball, L., & Jakobs, T. April 2004. 16-20.
- Mom went to speech instead of the beach: Camp Chatterbox—Children’s specialized hospital. Bruno, J. May 1997. 11-13.
- Multicultural demographics in AAC. Wasson, C. A. November 1994. 7.
- Music, play, and AAC. Spitler, C. K. November 1995. 4-6.
- My story of managed care. Wilder, K. (for T. Ayers). May 1998. 8-10.
- Nonverbal immediacy: Communicative salience during interpersonal interactions. Sargent, J. E. September 2005. 4-7.
- Online instruction in AAC: Engaging the learner. Zangari, C. June 2004. 20-24.
- The Oregon health plan: Understanding implications for people with disabilities. Starr, J. May 1998. 7-8.
- Oregon’s Medicaid program and managed care: A case study of legal issues. Sundberg, R. May 1998. 6.
- Organizational strategies. Beukelman, D. R., & Light, J. August 2002. 14-17.
- Our journey. Huer, M. B. November 1994. 9-10.
- The Penn State partnerships in AAC project: A multidisciplinary preservice program for speech language pathologists and special education teachers. Light, J., McNaughton, D., Drager, K., Roberts, B., & Wilson, K. June 2004. 8-12.
- Pennsylvania’s solution to funding school-based assistive technology. Evans, L. M. June 2001. 22-24.
- Performance and usability. Higginbotham, J., McNaughton, D., & Kovack, T. August 2002. 17-19.
- Personal perspectives on transition and assistive technology. Ward, M. J. February 1998. 7-8.
- Perspectives on teaching AAC. Cumley, G. D., & Robinson, N. B. June 2004. 2-3.
- Pick a curriculum, any curriculum: What to use with people who use AAC. Valot, L. S. November 1996. 10-11.
- The Picture Exchange Communication System. Frost, L. April 2003. 8-10.
- Play-based assessment for AAC. Casey, K. November 1995. 10-13.
- The play’s the thing. Higgins, J. M., & Carney, R. August 1994. 2-4.
- Pragmatic trade-offs in utterance-based systems: Uncovering technological implications. McCoy, K. F., Bedrosian, J. L., & Hoag, L. A. December 2001. 12-16.
- Prelinguistic communication intervention may be one way to help children with developmental delays learn to talk. Yoder, P., & Warren, S. F. May 1999. 11-12.
- Psychological perspectives of AAC use. Seaver, R. I. September 1996. 9-13.
- Questions and answers about Resna’s quality assurance activities. Cress, C. November 1995. 13-15.
- Rationale for preservice training in AAC. Ratcliff, A. February 1999. 3-6.
- Reading development in AAC. Erickson, K. February 2003. 8-10.
- Reading development: Models and processes. Morris, R. D., & Sevcik, R. A. February 2003. 3-5.
- The reality of managed health care: Implications for AAC service delivery. Murphy, J. W. May 1998. 4-5.
- Reflections from a project director (1994-2000). Huer, M. B. May 2000. 14-16.
- Remembering key points for inclusion. Osborn, S. R. September 1995. 9-12.
- “Repair work ahead”: The importance of assessing communication breakdown and repair in AAC. Brady, N. C. December 1999. 10-11.
- A report of the division survey on direct versus indirect services. Bruno, J. August 1994. 9-10.
- Representational strategies. Light, J., & Beukelman, D. R. August 2002. 20-21.
- Representing the way to language learning and expression. Mollica, B. M. November 1997. 3-4.
- Research with young children at risk for speech/language development disorders. Sevcik, R. A. May 1999. 1-4.
- Resna credentialing program. Watkins, C. W. June 1996. 11-12.
- Resna’s AAC credentialing activities. Lloyd, L. L. June 1996. 12-14.
- Responding to a common early ACC question: “Will my child talk?” Cress, C. December 2003. 10-11.
- Responding to individual needs: Promoting the literacy development of students who use AAC. Erickson, K., & Clendon, S. A. June 2005. 11-16.
- Responding to threats to Medicaid SGD coverage & funding. Golinker, L. December 2005. 11-13.
- Response to “Ethical dilemmas.” Staugler, K. November 1996. 14-16.
- Re-thinking access to AAC technologies for young children: Simplifying the learning demands. Light, J. M. & Drager, K. April 2004. 5-12.

- Rethinking sentence formulation in AAC. Patel, R. December 2001. 5-7.
- The road to full-time employment. Rackensperger, T. December 2005. 8-9.
- The role of linguistic theory in AAC. Nyberg, E. September 1996. 7-9.
- Running the maze. Deputy, P. N. August 1993. 4-5.
- Selecting reading and writing vocabulary for the AAC user. Lowe, M. A. April 2003. 3-7.
- Self injury as alternative communication: Bridging behavior and biology. Symons, F. J. March 2001. 3-5.
- Service learning model for preprofessional preparation in AAC at New Mexico State University. Stuart, S. February 1999. 7.
- The SETT framework: Choosing and using tools that promote inclusion through communication participation, and productivity. Zabala, J. September 1995. 6-8.
- Sharing a dream: A summer institute for language and literacy. Staehely, J., Murphy, J., & Myers, C. May 1997. 13-14.
- Should AAC be taught as a separate curriculum? Erickson, K. A., & Koppenhaver, D. A. November 1996. 5-7.
- Special educators and SLPs working together to provide AAC services. Beck, A., & Thompson, J. R. December 2000. 13-14.
- Specialty recognition. Wilkinson, K. M. May 1999. 13.
- Specialty recognition. Zangari, C. November 1998. 12.
- Specialty Recognition Committee final report—May 23, 2001. Kravitz, E., Bruno, J., Tullman, J., Wilkinson, K., Wiseman, V. A., & Zangari, C. September 2001. 20-22.
- Specialty recognition in ACC. Kraat, A. August 1994. 5-7.
- Speech comprehension and early augmented language intervention: Concepts, measurement, and clinical considerations. Rowski, M. A., & Sevcik, R. A. May 1999. 7-10.
- Spot the funding: A hypothetical case study illustrating funding dilemmas of older age persons with communication disabilities. Broehl, M. March 1995. 11-12.
- Story telling as an augmentative communication approach for a man with severe apraxia of speech and expressive aphasia. Fried-Oken, M. March 1995. 3-4.
- A student guide for successful inclusion. Kaye & Phillip (in collaboration with G. Van Tatenhove). September 1995. 12-14.
- Supporting AAC device users living in residential care settings. Van Tatenhove, G. December 2004. 8-11.
- Symbolization and the young child with significant communication challenges. Zangari, C. September 2004. 19-21.
- System appeal/attitudes. Beukelman, D. R., & Light, J. August 2002. 21-23.
- A tale of two transitions. Nelson, B., Howell, M., & Ross, J. February 1998. 9-10.
- Tangible solutions for individuals with dual sensory impairments. Rowland, C., & Schweigert, P. December 2000. 3-4.
- Teaching parents to support their children's communication: Adaptations for AAC. Kaiser, A. P., & Hancock, T. B. September 2004. 4-6.
- Teaching resources in AAC and distance learning. Gillette, Y. February 1999. 16-18.
- Technology use among teens and young adults with autism and related disorders. Chung, P., & Tull, R. G. August 2000. 16-18.
- Ten years of technology. Ahlers, J., & Leiter, J. April 1994. 3-5.
- Test accommodations: What do we know? Arvidson, H. August 1998. 16-17.
- A theater script. Brothers, S., Sewell, R., Smith, S., Anderson, K., & Dublin, C. November 1995. 8-10.
- There are no prerequisites for communication. Brady, N., Sevcik, R. A., Caves, K., Mclean, L., Mollica, B. M., Rowski, M., Snell, M., & Paul-Brown, D. August 2003. 27-29.
- They said it couldn't be done, but we did it anyway. Lloyd, L. L., & Pufpaff, L. February 1999. 8-11.
- Toward autonomy in AAC practice. Sweeney, L. A. August 1993. 2-4.
- Transition planning: Not just a good IDEA, it's the law! Bersani, H. A., & Fried-Oken, M. February 1998. 4-5.
- Transitions from spontaneous to intentional behaviors. Cress, C. J. May 1999. 4-7.
- Transitions in early intervention and AAC. Hidecker, M. J. C. September 2004. 15-19.
- Translating theory into practice: A baker's dozen. Swengel, K., & Armstrong, J. S. November 1998. 3-4.
- Tricare expands SGD coverage. Golinker, L. September 2005. 25-26.
- Two realities: How the social conditions of society affect the quality of life of people with disabilities (personal and economic points of view). Rakhman, S. V. August 2003. 20-27.
- The United States Society for Augmentative and Alternative Communication. Kovach, T. August 2003. 19-20.
- Understanding social security disability and work incentives. Anctil, T. M. February 1998. 5-7.
- Unusual research partners. Beukelman, D. R. August 2002. 24.
- Update from the National Joint Committee for the Communication Needs of Persons with Severe Disabilities. McLean, L. K., Mollica, B. M., Mirenda, P., Paul-Brown, D., Rowski, M. A., Sevcik, R. A., & Snell, M. E. June 2001. 24-27.
- Update on Medicare and speech generating devices. Doyle, M., & Burton, W. April 2005. 13-18.
- Using competent AAC users as peer trainers. Van Tatenhove, G. M. August 1993. 5-7.

- Using evidence-based practice to guide decision making in AAC. Clark, E. A., & Clark, E. G. November 2002. 6-9.
- Using functional behavioral assessment and functional communication training to assess and prevent challenging behavior. McEvoy, M. A., & Neilsen, S. L. March 2001. 6-8.
- Using Internet sources within and beyond the classroom. Dowden, P. June 2004. 17-20.
- Using natural context AAC assessments to plan meaningful intervention. Zangari, C. April 1994. 5-6.
- Using quality indicators to improve service delivery for assistive technology services in educational settings. McCloskey, S. R., Zabala, J. S. November 2002. 3-6.
- Utilizing an AAC system to maximize receptive and expressive communication skills of a person with Alzheimer's disease. Leseth, L., & Meader, L. March 1995. 7-9.
- The value of the interdisciplinary team evaluation in the assessment of individuals with AAC needs. Becker, L. B. September 1999. 5-6.
- Virtually speaking. Blackstone, S. W. November 2002. 2-3.
- Visual design: Implications for developing dynamic display systems. Scally, C. December 2001. 16-19.
- "We have come a long way..." AAC and multiculturalism: From cultural awareness to cultural responsibility. Soto, G. May 2000. 1-3.
- A Web site worth checking out: aac.unl.edu. Gillette, Y. August 2000. 15-16.
- WebCrawlers—Taking AAC devices to a new level. Younkerman, T. December 2005. 9-10.
- What an experience—A preservice training opportunity! Talking with technology camp. Moore, S. M., Kovach, T. M., & Donaldson, C. A. May 1997. 9-11.
- What is NJC doing for children and adults with severe disabilities? Paul-Brown, D. December 1999. 8-10.
- What is an RERC? Williams, M. August 2002. 4-5.
- Where are we with specialty recognition? Zangari, C. June 1996. 4-6.
- Why is yogurt good for you? Because it has live cultures. Mahendra, N., Ribera, J., Sevcik, R., Adler, R., Cheng, L., Davis-McFarland, E., Deal-Williams, V., Garrett, D., Riquelme, L., Salisbury, T., Schneider, W., & Villanueva, A. December 2004. 17-19.
- Will ASHA's new structure meet your needs? Lloyd, L.L. August 1997. 17-19.
- Word prediction: A time saver? Kwasniewski, J. August 1994. 4-5.
- Working with low-income Latino families: Issues and strategies. McCord, S., & Soto, G. May 2000. 10-12.
-