Subject: Improving Early Intervention Access for our Community

Dear [Name],

I hope this message finds you well. I'm reaching out as ["an audiologist" or "a speech-language pathologist"] working in [your setting], and I am interested in collaborating around improving early access to assessment and intervention services for children in our community who are experiencing communication challenges, including speech, language, and/or hearing.

Many families face delays in getting connected with early support—often due to referral gaps, awareness, or system navigation. I'd be happy to provide a quick referral guide; answer questions about speech, language, feeding/swallowing, and hearing milestones; and/or explore ways that we can work together to make referrals smoother and more timely.

Would you be open to a brief conversation or a meeting?

Thanks for the important work you do to support early childhood development—
I'm looking forward to connecting!

Warmly,

[Your Name, Credentials]

Presentation Title: “What Every Parent Should Know About Early Communication; Feeding and Swallowing; and Hearing”

Hello, and welcome to [insert title of your presentation]. Thank you for being here today! My name is [Name], and I’m an [audiologist or SLP] who works with young children and their families.

One of the most important things I’ve learned in my work is this: the earlier we support a child’s development, the better their outcomes will be—whether that’s communication, speech, language, hearing and listening, or social skills.

But families often don’t know what’s typical—or who to ask when they have concerns. So today, we’re going to

- talk about key milestones in communication and hearing;
- explore how early intervention works; and, most importantly,
- highlight ways to get help if you need it.

We’ll also have time for questions—and you’ll walk away with a resource guide to take home.

Let’s make sure that every child has the chance to thrive—starting early.
