

Concerned about your child's speech and language skills?

Text TALK to 274 448

The American Speech-Language-Hearing Association (ASHA) and Lantern have teamed up to provide expert resources and tips for parents and caregivers of children 2–6 years of age.

By texting TALK, you'll receive timely text messages that share:

- Expected speech and language milestones
- Warning signs of a speech or language disorder
- Suggested activities for supporting speech and language development
- Words of encouragement
- Information on how to get connected with professional help

The messages are:

- Timed to your child's exact age
- Available in English, Spanish and Arabic
- Free and private (your information will never be shared).

Speech and language disorders are among the most common conditions that children experience, but they are also highly treatable!

Sign up by texting TALK to 274 448. You'll learn more about how you can support your child's communication development, setting them up for a bright future.
